

Ford Motor Company Acts To Carry Labor Board's Decision to U. S. Courts

Moves Promptly After Plea for Rerearing Is Denied

Washington—The labor relations board asked the sixth federal circuit court of appeals today for an order to enforce the board's decision against the Ford Motor Company.

Board officials said they had mailed the application to the court at Covington, Ky.

The board yesterday denied the company's petition for a rehearing of the case. The company then announced it would not comply with the board's decision and would fight the case in court.

The board along with its finding that the company had violated "unfair labor practice" sections of the Wagner act, ordered the company to reinstate 29 employees the board decided had been discharged for union activity.

Detroit—The decision of the national labor relations board that the Ford Motor Company violated the Wagner act was headed toward the United States Court of Appeals today.

Preliminary skirmishing ended yesterday when the N. L. R. B. denied in Washington the Ford petition for a rehearing.

Almost immediately the respondent filed with the Detroit office of the board notice that it did not intend to comply with numerous provisions of the board's decision, including an order to rehire 29 persons allegedly dismissed for union activity.

The Ford company in its latest pleadings stated its position as follows:

"It is the intention of the respondent to obey in the future, as it has in the past, the provisions of the national labor relations act upon which the decision and order purport to be based."

The company contended it had not violated the act, that most of the charges made against it were "unjustified by the facts and unsupported by the evidence," and that the board exceeded both its constitutional and statutory authority in ordering the company to desist from certain activities connected with labor policy.

The N. L. R. B. announced in Washington it would go before the court of appeals for an order to enforce its decision. It did not disclose what circuit bench would get the appeal. Michigan, home of the respondent, is in the sixth judicial circuit.

Because of recent hearings involving Ford workers in St. Louis and Kansas City, as well as Detroit, it was considered likely here that the case might go before the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Board's Order

The order the board seeks to enforce told the Ford Motor Company to cease discouraging membership in the United Automobile Workers of America, dominating the Ford brotherhood (a rival union), organizing or maintaining vigilante groups, threatening, beating or intimidating unionists, and opposing organization of workers in any way.

The order to reinstate 29 men allegedly discharged for union activity would require also that they be reimbursed for loss of pay.

The final pleadings of the company before the case moves on to court dwell extensively on the point that it would be impossible to cease practices of which it never was guilty.

The company contended it never had discouraged membership in the U. A. W. A. never contributed financially or otherwise to the support of a rival union, never organized or assisted a vigilante group, never assaulted or beat U. A. W. A. members.

Gardner Chairman Of Scout Contests

Errington Head Judge for District First Aid Trials

Thirty Boy Scout first aid teams representing 13 Appleton district troops will compete in contests here Friday and Monday nights, the first at Roosevelt Junior high school and the second at Wilson Junior High school.

Al Gardner is general chairman of the two contests which will determine which team will enter the valley council finals later this year.

Other "key" men in the contests are Robert Errington, chief judge; William Gust, floor manager; James Dunham, chief recorder; Fred Duprey, chief registrar.

Gardner said yesterday he had selected the four problems which the teams will face in the tests. Boy Scouts are trained to administer first aid in cases of broken arms, foreign elements in the eyes, burns, etc., and in the contests are presented with problems built around one of these injuries or mishaps.

Duffy Family Settled in New Home at Washington

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—After many vicissitudes in house-hunting, Senator and Mrs. P. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac are settling down into an early American home in Georgetown, a part of Washington which is older than Washington.

Their red brick detached house at 1416 33rd street Northwest is just around the corner from "Jimmie" Roosevelt's and just around another corner from the home of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts.

Senator Duffy laughed that he is living "down the alley between them."

Two blocks west is the Convent of the Visitation, which their daughter, Ann, is attending, and in which she will continue to reside until the first semester ends, at that time going home to live with the family.

Ryan Jr. and Hayden plan to attend St. John's college here, and Jimmie is going to a public school close to their new home.

Appleton Man Attends Opening of Congress

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington—W. Delmar Peterson of Appleton, with a little assistance from the office of Congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton, planned to kill two birds with one stone while on his present trip east.

Peterson chose to go to New York, where he was to attend a hosiery salesmen's meeting, via Washington. Reason for this, he explained, was so that he could attend the opening of congress and hear the president deliver his message.

Plan WPA Job At Sanatorium

Little Chute Clerk to Advise for Bids For Pumps

Little Chute—At a regular meeting of the village board Tuesday evening the village clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for pumps to be used at the Riverview sanatorium project. The work at this project will start in a few weeks the project having been approved by the WPA officials. The men who are registered by the WPA have already been assigned to this job. Plans and specifications for this project as drawn up by A. E. McMahon, engineer, are on file with the clerk.

A resolution regarding the opening of E. Garfield avenue to the public was adopted by the board. Stephen M. Peeters, operator of the sewage disposal plant was instructed to purchase necessary forms for his use and also to purchase paint for the interior of the plant from a local dealer. The monthly report of the village treasurer for December was read showing a cash balance Dec. 31 of $1,636.90. The monthly report of the marshal was read and showed that 81 transients were taken care of during December. No arrests were made during the holidays. The next meeting of the board will be held Tuesday evening, Jan. 18.

Twenty-three members attended the regular meeting of the members of the Volunteer fire department at the village hall Monday evening. Cards followed the business meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Gloude-mans, Garfield avenue, entertained eight guests at a dinner at their home Sunday evening. Cards followed the dinner. The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Kersten and daughter, Mary, Green Bay.

Mrs. Chester Perkins has returned to her home in Lansing, Mich., after a week's visit at the home of her mother, Mrs. Arnold Gloude-mans, Canal street.

The house is furnished in colonial furniture, and has three fireplaces on the first floor.

Recovery Tied Up With Revision of Tax Rate System

Uncle Sam Must Put Out Low Priced Model and Depend Upon Volume

BY DAVID LAWRENCE Washington—The most sensational disclosure in the president's budget message is not the amount of the deficit for next year or the figures on expenses and income, but the very interesting curve of tax receipts, which upon its face raises the vital question of whether the limit of taxation now has been reached in the United States.

Unless ways and means are devised to increase the national income very decidedly, the tax curve is going down instead of up. This means that, if the present rate of expenditures is kept up, there can be no balanced budget for many years to come—if at all.

The problem is best understood by taking the newly published figures showing exactly how much taxes have been collected by the federal government each year since 1931. It shows that, from $3,189,000,000 in 1931, the tax receipts went down to a low point of $2,005,000,000 the next year and then started up again slowly until, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937, they amounted to $5,749,000,000, exclusive of social security or payroll taxes, which are supposed to be a trust fund.

Now this last figure represents a peak and is slightly above the $5,726,000,000 collected in taxes in the war prosperity year of 1920—a record for all time.

Having reached the peak in the fiscal year 1938, the estimates of taxes to be collected in the fiscal year 1939 now are shown in the president's budget message to be $5,321,000,000, which is also exclusive of social security or payroll taxes.

This downward trend is not in itself the only important fact, but what it means in relation to the normal expenses of the government is what is expected to be normal, as the president now characterizes a budget of $7,000,000,000.

Figures Complete

An analysis of the president's figures, which, by the way, are the most complete ever issued on fiscal affairs, shows that the federal government now has been running along on a budget of about $5,300,000,000, more or less, for everything except emergency or relief expenses.

It is pertinent, therefore, to examine the expenses over and above the regular departments and agencies. It will be found that the government has been spending about $1,730,000,000 for works progress administration, known as WPA, and about $500,000,000 for public works through the PWA and about $500,000,000 for agricultural and other subsidies. In the fiscal year 1937, these extra items came to about $2,783,000,000.

In the present fiscal year, these items are to be handled with a somewhat smaller expenditure, variously estimated at this time, but it looks like about $1,500,000,000. The deficit will not reach that sum because there are some miscellaneous receipts, such as repayment of old loans, which help to cut it down, but the truth is the nation faces the fact that tax collections are not large enough and will not be large enough under the present system to offset these extra expenses.

Certainly, the item of relief will have to be continued as long as there are somewhere between 7,000,000 and 10,000,000 persons unemployed, as revealed by the recent census. This may run around $1,000,000,000. Then there is the subsidy for the farmers, which is becoming an annual or regular part of the budget, so that, if we are ever to balance our budget and begin to have a surplus with which to retire debt, some way must be found to add at least about $1,500,000,000 to our treasury receipts.

The president's hope is that the national income will rise steadily. This means that velocity of transactions or total volume must be increased. It means, too, that some way must be found to multiply business transactions through greater productivity or intensification of the home market or the foreign market or both.

Judging by the tax curve, the imposition of more taxes on the present national income will only mean a breakdown in the national income itself. In fact, if it were politically feasible, the government could well afford to revise the whole tax structure downward and take a temporary loss in receipts as an investment toward actually stimulating a greater total of tax receipts the following year and the year thereafter.

Low Taxes Profitable

What the administration has been unwilling to accept as yet is the rule that the lower the tax rate the greater the volume of business, and hence the greater the total volume of tax collections and actually the smaller the sums needed for relief, whereas, the higher the tax rates, the greater is the burden on business, and on the consumer who is asked to pay for the taxes in higher retail prices.

The future of American prosperity, and, indeed, immediate recovery is tied up with such a general revision of the tax rate system as to provide real incentives for the increasing of the national income. Uncle Sam must put out a low-priced model, so to speak, and depend upon volume hereafter instead of depending on high tax rates that have not and cannot produce enough revenue because there are not enough individuals who make enough money to supply the deficits. The limit of capacity to pay taxes may have been reached in 1937, and the downward trend of tax receipts after three years of "pump-priming" means only that the administration must now concentrate on ways and means of building up the net incomes of American businesses, large as well as small.

Makes 176 Plumbing Inspections in Month

George Gauslin, city plumbing inspector made 176 inspections during December according to his monthly report. There were 14 furnace inspections, 15 final inspections, 81 roughing inspections and 66 sewer inspections listed.

There were 91 permits issued by the inspector during the period including 44 heating permits, five for water service connections, 9 to open trenches for sewers, one for sewer repairs and 32 plumbing permits bringing in a total of $158. Total fees for the year are $1,569.50.

Farmers Helping With Inventory of State Livestock

Wisconsin Ranks High in Completeness of Its Agricultural Reports

Thousands of Wisconsin farmers are cooperating with the crop reporting service and the Wisconsin and United States Departments of agriculture in making the annual livestock inventory for the state, C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

This inquiry sent out by the crop reporting service is part of an annual nation-wide survey. The green schedules which have been mailed to many farmers in the state contain questions on livestock numbers and how livestock has been disposed of during the year.

Wisconsin ranks high in the completeness of its agricultural reports. Farmers in the state show exceptionally keen interest in cooperating with the crop reporting service in making a check on the changes which occur in the state's great industry.

The results of this report combined with the recent survey made through the cooperation of the rural mail carriers will give an accurate and up-to-date picture of the livestock situation in the state.

Aldermen Vote To Restore Part Of Salary Cuts

lengthy discussion. Aldermen DeLand, Grignon, Thompson and Vanderhyden opposed publication of the ordinance as drawn by the finance committee.

Salary boosts for appointive and elective officials will become effective at the beginning of their next terms while all others will be in force May 1.

The total wage adjustment involving 67 officials and employees will amount to $4,993.90 per year and will mean an increase of about 11 cents per $1,000 on the tax rate. As an illustration, if a man owned property valued at $5,000, he will pay about 55 cents per year towards salary increases.

Before publication of the ordinance was ordered, aldermen who cast dissenting votes bitterly opposed any salary increases because of business conditions and each believed officials and employees involved were getting enough money.

Aldermen favoring the restoration pointed out that this will be the last time before election the council will have a chance to restore salaries. It was also pointed out that officers would be forced to wait two years before restoration could again be considered. Mayor Goodland was silent throughout the discussion.

Safety Measure

An ordinance regulating the height of bushes and shrubs in the city's parkways was passed unanimously. The new ordinance stipulates that shrubs may not be planted in the area between the curb and the sidewalk a distance of 50 feet from any intersection. It authorizes the city to remove any shrubs or bushes in that area and charge the cost to the property owner. A fine of $25 and costs or from 3 to 30 days in jail was set as the penalty for violation.

A contract to furnish the city a carload of gasoline at .076 per gallon was given to the Bell Oil and Gas company, Milwaukee. Scheuler company, Appleton, was given the contract to supply the fire department with 1,500 feet of 2 1/2 inch hose carrying the underwriters label, at 53 cents per foot. The 12 bids offered ranged from 53 cents to $1.12. The lowest price previously paid for fire hose was 77 cents per foot.

Final action on the salary ordinance will be taken at the adjourned meeting of the council at 7:30 Wednesday evening, Jan. 19. New aldermen elected April 5 of this year will receive $500 per year instead of $450. This includes all committee work.

Increases ranging from $28.35 to $12 and salaries to range from $1,404 for the first year to $1,638 for the fifth year and after.

Others Unchanged

No changes were made in the amounts for the various classifications of clerks, stenographers, extra help, or in the hourly wages of city employees.

Salaries of the city attorney, city physician, sealer of weights and measures, city home keeper, weigh master, janitor, plumbing inspector, city nurse, deputy health officer, superintendent of sewage disposal plant, water commissioners and election board members will remain the same as the amount set last year.

Aldermen voted to vacate Railroad avenue providing Harry H. Long, who wishes to build a truck terminal on property recently purchased by him, can secure permission of property owners. Dissenting votes were cast by Aldermen Franke, Grignon, Steinhauer and Vanderhyden.

Restrict Parking

A resolution to amend the parking ordinance and place 90-minute parking restriction on Walnut street and Morrison street from Lawrence street to College avenue was unanimously passed. The council took no action on regulating parking on Soldiers square. However, the traffic committee suggested parking at the curb on the street be prohibited in the spring.

The building code ordinance, recently completed by the committee, was submitted and ordered tabled until the next meeting. Alderman Thompson suggested that, because of the length of the ordinance, the information contained in it be published in book form instead of written into the city's laws. Action will probably be taken at the next meeting.

The council authorized the clerk to send a check of $184 to the Wisconsin League of Municipalities in payment of membership dues.

A resolution submitted by Alderman Franke to apply for state aid to pave Meade street and to use the street as a connecting link to Superhighway 41 was referred to the board of public works.

Operator's licenses were granted to Alvin Vanderlinden, 318 N. Oneida street, and to Fred Scheff, 403 N. Richmond street. A license was given to the Appleton Taxi company and junk dealers licenses were given to Louis and Sidney Fink.

The council unanimously agreed to close Lemnaw street from Opachee street to North street to allow youngsters to slide.

5 Persons Fined for Breaking Parking Law

Five persons pleaded guilty and were fined $5 and costs each for violating the city parking ordinance by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning. The motorists who were arrested yesterday by city police are Julius Krause, 1816 N. Drew street; Edward Verbeck, 1309 S. Oneida street; Orville Myse, 319 N. Appleton street; Dudley Eisele, 121 N. Maybe Little Americans Are Still Hiding Money

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—There may be something in what the papers say about the discouraging effect on business of the capital gains and undistributed profits taxes, but thinking back a few years, I am reminded of some other matters which are even more responsible for the bashful attitude of capital which Mr. Jackson described as a sit-down strike. Only I wouldn't say that the money is on strike. I would say that it is still scared and merely hiding.

The man with a hundred dollars which he wants to invest for a few more dollars in annual income still remembers the fallen empires and spiny bonds of 1929. He will be thinking of those golfing brokers and gone-for-the-day bankers of the era of wonderful nonsense, of beautiful color-press subdivisions and soufle bond companies which advertised their sacred trust and of the bewildering but perfectly legal receiverships which followed the crash, in which the lawyers took first grab at the salvage and often took it all.

Didn't they always tell us that big business was big only in the aggregate but composed of the savings, the life insurance, the individual social security of millions of little Americans?

That being so, wouldn't it be the little Americans who today are withholding their money from business, preferring to squirrel it away in government bonds and savings banks at trivial interest or to shut their eyes, cross their fingers and chance it with the insurance companies which, like the banks, then have the problem of finding sound investments?

They Remember The Last Time They Did Their Duty

It is doubtful that this class of sidown capitalists, to give them the name which Mr. Jackson called them, know anything about the taxes on capital gains and undistributed profits. And if they have done any serious reading on these things they will have heard some very interesting reasons why they should be retained to offset the reasons for their abolition. But, in a most personal and resentful way, they do know what happened the last time they did their duty to the community—it's a duty now, but in those days it was greedy folly, and their anguish served them right.

In the lessons preached after the crash the little Americans were told distinctly that nickels don't grow up to be dollars any more than killics grow up to be trout or ponies develop into thoroughbreds. These are the people who nowadays apparently have decided that the only debtor who is really a safe risk is Uncle Sam, with the savings banks and insurance companies for second choice.

There Must Be A Lot Of Money Under Bricks

It is often said, and on nice authority, that business has turned square since 1929, but what help is that, if true, to the morale of our friend with a little fall money for his old age or the children's college,

First District Yields

51 Loads of Rubbish

Fifty-one loads of rubbish were collected by city workmen in the first district Tuesday and Wednesday. Canvass for rubbish in the second district will begin Tuesday morning. The second district includes that section of the city from Drew street to N. Division street from the river to the city limits.

Three Workmen Suffer Injuries in Accidents

Leeman—The icy condition of roads and highways have been the cause of many minor accidents here within the last few days.

Three workmen employed at the Fisher brothers logging camp were injured the first of the week. Irvin Nitzke cut a deep gash in his left hand when he slipped and fell on a sharp ax. Lester Fields suffered a similar accident, cutting his hand severely on an ax, and William Kimke fractured a rib in a fall there. All three men were treated by a physician.

All schools in this section opened Monday morning after the holiday vacation.

The following students, who spent the holiday vacation at their homes here, returned to their studies Monday morning: Lorraine and Wesley Poole, Glenn Parks, Louis Breetzman, LaVada Falk, Dorothy Leeman, Leigh and Keith Spocher, Alice Bergsbaken, Vincent Schreder, Maxie Webb, Virginia Schroeder, Franklin Burgen, Glenn Carter, Royal Leeman, Sylvia Hall, Daniel McClone and Elroy Bergsbaken, Shiocton High school; John Parks, Appleton High school; Raymond Boody and Otto Falk, Clintonville High school; Dorothy Bergsbaken, state teachers' college at Stevens Point.

Miss Marie Baumgarten, teacher at Oakland school, reports following pupils had a perfect record of attendance for December: Arthur Curtis, Evelyn Kruse, Florence Stigar, Raymond Hintz, Wayne Theed, Ruby Allen, Clarence Roden, Darrel Allen, Jerome Rush, Ervin Beyer, Virginia Beyer, Joseph Rush, Duane Conlon, Louis Rush and Lorraine Scott.

Mrs. Josephine Roberts, who was injured when she fell from a chair in her home early in fall and was a patient at the Community hospital in New London for several weeks, still is confined at the home of her son at New London.

Miss Gladys Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thompson who has been confined to her home with illness the last few months, is reported to be improving in health.

Red Cross Warns Against

Direct Aid for Chinese

Pleas for relief of Chinese refugees in war torn areas by the International Red Cross committee are not authorized by the American Red Cross, according to Mrs. S. C. Shannon, secretary of Outagamie county chapter. The secretary warned citizens not to donate directly to the cause but anyone wishing to give money for relief work in China should send it to the local chapter which will make certain funds are going into the right channels.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Ray Bolger, rubber-legs dancer and comedian, is scoring a hit in Hollywood as much for what he hasn't done on the screen as for what he has.

It happened this way: Famed on the stage as a tap and eccentric dancer, Ray was a hit in "The Great Ziegfeld" last year—appearing in but one number. This year, he was assigned to the musical "Rosalia" in a prominent role. But the picture was so long when completed that cutting was necessary. Much of Bolger's stuff was sacrificed in the operation. Result: previewers unanimously inquired, "Why wasn't there more of that funny thin man?"

Ultimate result: there will be more, in "The Girl of the Golden West," and in subsequent films—more, and more.

Ray's from Boston, wanted to be a bank president but became a vacuum sweeper salesman instead, and gave that up for hoofing. Here's how he does it:

RAY BOLGER
The Screen's Fall Guy

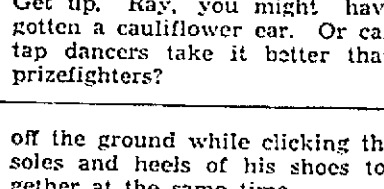

CRASH
Maybe he's in too much of a hurry. Look out, Ray, or you'll need a parachute. Anyway, it looks like a bad landing.

TAKEOFF
Ray doesn't recommend this for beginners. It's a time step two feet from the ground.

GROUNDING
There he is, back to earth again. Get up, Ray, you might have gotten a cauliflower ear. Or can tap dancers take it better than prizefighters?

CLIMBING
Now he's really going into action, flipping himself four feet off the ground while clicking the soles and heels of his shoes together at the same time.

Fletcher Valentine knows tobacco values...like so many other independent experts he smokes Luckies!

"I've bought 4,000,000 pounds of tobacco at auctions in the past ten years," says Mr. Valentine, independent buyer of Westfield, N. C., "and my bread and butter depends on making the right bids. That's why I have to know tobacco values. Now I've smoked Luckies ever since 1918, and the reason is, they suit my taste to a 'T'. Nobody knows better than we tobacco men that Luckies are made of the finest center-leaf tobacco."

Yes—and that isn't all...Luckies' exclusive process, "It's Toasted" takes out certain irritants naturally present in all tobacco—even the finest! The result is that you will find Luckies not only taste good but are easy on your throat.

Surely, independent experts like Mr. Valentine make good judges of cigarettes... Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all other cigarettes combined!

What to Wear?

for those outdoor winter sports, or for protection from the extremely cold weather in any walk of life, will be no problem to any one visiting our store and viewing the unusually large and varied assortment of warm wearables we have for them.

Whether you want to ski — go ice boating or indulge in any of the healthful outdoor sports, we have smartly styled apparel to fit the activity.

- Coats of plain or plaid mackinaws — with or without hoods.
- Coats of leather — wool blanket lined with laskin lamb collars.
- Coats of corduroy — with lamb linings and collars.
- Jackets of mackinaw or leather, laskin lamb trimmed.
- Heavy — all wool — bright plaid "lumber jack" shirts.
- Shirts of fine quality, in slip-over—goucho neck — in plain colors and body stripes.
- Sox, with colors so brightly warm and Jack Frost repelling.

We could fill the page enumerating all the items of sports wear, but it couldn't adequately convey the smartness of the items, so we ask you to come in and see them — try them on if you wish.

Defenders of LaFollette Say Lawmakers Have Check On Reorganization Powers

(Editor's note: This is the second of a series of articles in which a Post-Crescent staff correspondent will discuss the views and background of the state government reorganization act, on which Governor LaFollette and his advisors are now working.)

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Supporters of the projected reorganization of the Wisconsin state government, and particularly students of public administration, have frequently pointed out that in the traditional centralized system, the people "in attempting to tie the governor's hands from evil, had not left them free for good."

A modern government, they say, requires executive leadership, and if the governor's hands are tied, the leadership necessary for the satisfactory functioning of that agency, the state government is impossible. So more and more in these modern times American states have taken this step, have given their governors the necessary power for directing and planning the work of the machine of which he is the head.

When Governor LaFollette asked the legislature to enact a bill giving him the power to "transfer any function, division or agency within one board, commission, department, agency or instrumentality of state government" for the purpose of "promoting efficiency and economy in the administration of state government," a great wall went up over the state.

Charge Dictatorship
Representatives of the public, and particularly opposing politicians, pictured the governor as lusty for power, termed him a brazen dictator who had cowed the legislature into surrendering to him its unquestioned and historic prerogatives.

Defenders of the LaFollette administration and the reorganization plan, however, point out that the governor's power is hemmed in by safeguards; first, any proposal must first be ratified by an interim committee on reorganization, consisting of 13 members, three senators and five assemblymen, the secretary of state, state treasurer, civil service director, the attorney general and the superintendent of public instruction; second, the legislature of 1939, within ten days after convening, may veto any reorganization plans which have been effected.

Most important of their arguments, however, is that recently voiced by Governor LaFollette himself, namely, that "the task of organizing an administrative system is primarily an executive one."

A LaFollette administration spokesman might argue his case something like this:
The primary objection to giving the governor so much power is that he will use it to the detriment of the state. But the governor is responsible to the people, and he will face them in a few months, in the November election.

Often Compromise
But this danger is no more serious than is the path which leads through the jungle of legislative controversy and log-rolling. In fact, in the majority of states where reorganization plans have been passed by the legislature, the fight between those who sought the new system and those who supported the old order has been so bitter that the consolidation plans adopted were to a large extent compromises—and in many cases unfortunate compromises in which standards have given way to expediency.

And even if the dangers of log-rolling and mistaken compromises could be eliminated, (this spokesman might continue), the majority of legislators do not have the technical qualifications or experience necessary for revising a state administrative system. Only those who possess both expert knowledge and intimate experience with the administrative machine know "where and why" it is breaking down under its increasing load.

If the best knowledge and widest experience available have been called into service in framing a reorganization plan, why should it be forced to run the gamut of legislative attacks? Why should partisan politics or ignorance be permitted to emasculate an excellent plan of reorganization?

The LaFollette spokesman might also point out that President Roosevelt's committee on government reorganization recently wrote that "the work of reorganization is a continuing task growing out of and intimately related to the day to day work of the executive agencies."

He might add that "reorganization is a task which cannot be done once and for all, for government is a going concern in which new activities are constantly emerging and old activities are constantly changing, increasing, decreasing or disappearing. Therefore, the administrative structure cannot be embalmed into law."

And as Governor LaFollette recently said "there is a job to be done. It does not answer the problem by simply saying that we are opposed to letting the governor do it, and so we won't let anybody do it. Therefore, I am particularly gratified that the legislature of Wisconsin has found a constructive answer to this vital question, by giving the governor the needed power but at the same time providing safeguards against the abuse of that power."

(The next article will outline the objections to the idea of giving the governor the reorganization power.)

Republicans Checking Election Board Lists

Anticipating a number of changes in the city election board, Orville G. Hegner and Elmer Honkamp, Outagamie county Republican officials, are checking the terms which expire this spring. To become a member of an election board, a person must apply to the chairman of the city or county committee of the political party to which they belong or to the precinct chairman. Appointees are made by the mayor upon recommendation of the political party to be represented on the board.

Summer Pageant to Depict History of Northwest Region

36 Men, Accompanied by Ox Team, Will Arrive Here in July

A 2-hour pageant depicting eight episodes in the establishment of the ordinance of 1787 and the creation of the Northwest Territory will be presented in Appleton in July by the group of 36 men who left Ipswich, Mass., Dec. 3 for the lands beyond the Ohio river.

Recreating as faithfully as possible the trek of the original party of pioneers who settled the territory, the caravan is bringing to the people the story of the Northwest Territory and its development in pageant form.

Traveling by with an ox cart, dressed in costumes of 150 years ago, the men, most of them college students, are presenting their pageant at cities along their route.

Their appearance in Appleton will be sponsored by the Lions club. Attorney William L. Crow of Appleton is in charge of arranging with Wisconsin communities for presentation of the pageant and H. H. Helble, principal of the Appleton High school, is a member of the Northwest Territory Celebration commission for Wisconsin of which Senator Fred Risser, Madison, is chairman.

Has Federal Grant
A grant from the federal government made the project possible. States and communities sponsoring the pageant's appearance are paying for the keep of the men, horses and oxen.

The caravan carries its own collapsible stage, lighting equipment, and other accessories. Salaries are furnished by the federal government, but the community must provide the setting for the pageant, free to the public.

Besides Appleton, Two Rivers, New London, Waupaca, Stevens Point, and Marinette are on the itinerary of the caravan, Crow reported yesterday.

City Sealer Tests 18 Scales During December

Of 18 tests made during December by the city sealer of weights and measures, Joseph A. Hodgins, two were adjusted. None was condemned. One counter scale, two computing scales, one portable scale, two auto pumps and 12 liquid measures were tested.

The sealer made 119 visits during the period to make a total of 518 tryout tests. Twelve of the total were found to be incorrect. Nineteen computing scales, eight wagon scales and three miscellaneous scales were inspected and two complaints were investigated.

THE KLEPTOMANIAC NATION

Agua Caliente, a pleasure resort that cost Americans ten millions when they located it three miles into Mexico below the California boundary about 15 years ago, has been expropriated by the Mexican government with the statement that it is needed "for public education and sanitation." Here is a beautiful case of the reemergence of Bill Sikes daylight robbery, black mask, shotged billy and all.

This resort consists of a luxurious hotel, casino, bungalows, bath houses, golf course and race track, and the heart of it all was gambling. Its construction was arranged with the Mexican government which was happy to take over a share of the profits.

Then the President of Mexico, Cardenas, declared that gambling was to be stopped. It was a vicious practice and the Mexican people were above it. He could not think calmly of anyone rolling dice or playing roulette for money. The newspapers did not say that he wept but no doubt he daubed his eyes with his handkerchief.

So the resort closed down. A little while after it closed another one opened further to the south owned by interests more Mexican. At the new resort gambling was all right. It was not too vicious for the Mexican people. Nor did it set a bad example for them. In truth, of course, few Mexicans ever gambled at these resorts because they didn't take 10-cent bets.

No one north of the Mexican boundary either is going to weep about the twisted fortunes of a great business venture in which gambling was a component part.

But when nations pretend a purity of motives that does not exist and use the white banner of morality for the black purpose of thievery, and lure American capital into its domain so that it may entrap and strip it, we should cherish few illusions concerning that land, its government and its possibilities.

SENATOR GLASS PASSES 80

No one in recent or contemporaneous history resembles Senator Glass of Virginia so much as Clemenceau the old tiger who kept France alive with a fighting spirit when its senses were already benumbed by misery and punishment.

About neither of these two magnificent leaders of men and governments was there the least particle of blarney. They disdained the use of the honeyed phrase or the prettily set up emotional plea for favor.

They both built on truth, on nothing but the truth, on truth hammered home with mighty swings of a heavy sledge.

About each there was something ferocious. A deep scowl, a rasping tongue, a disregard for the softer amenities of polite society.

After Clemenceau retired from public life well beyond his 80th birthday an intrepid correspondent asked him what he was going to do. He glared at his questioner and barked out, "I am going to keep on living until I die."

It may be hoped for the benefit of America that Senator Glass does not retire from public life. A man of his character and attainments would always leave an emptiness that could be felt, but at this particular time his absence from the senate would almost make a void.

TOM-TOM FOR THE HIGH COURT

Was destiny pointing the way when the conservative Justice Sutherland resigned from the supreme court as Tom-Tom Hefflin suffered defeat in his attempted comeback to the senate?

Is it fair for the administration to leave Justice Black as the single Kluxer on the bench? Wouldn't it be more companionable to place alongside him such a hearty piece of bombast as Tom-Tom who knows how to get the "poor white trash" of Alabama fighting mad but cannot win an election when he is on his back with pneumonia.

Too bad there is a flaw in this sequence of events. No president wants to appoint two justices from the same state and particularly when that state is not large or populous although such is not an unbroken rule by any means.

Yet the idea has its fascinating points. Time, we know, was when racetrack touts and tavern gamblers were frowned down when they showed an ambition to mingle with those who earned a living according to the rules in the law books. But we have broken with some of these age-old superstitions as we have broken with the horse and buggy era and spurn everything about it from hoop skirts to mustache cups.

We have established in this age of approach to One Man Rule that it doesn't make a particle of difference how you get anywhere as long as you get there.

Nor do we think Catholics would long retain ill feeling if Tom-Tom is put on the supreme court. It can be explained that the Klan has reformed. Now in all its speeding activities in the southland it only rides heavily upon Jews and blacks. Perhaps it found the Catholics too numerous and too tough.

Seriously, however, the President may well shudder lest he duplicate his first purifying appointment to the supreme court.

LABOR AT FORT ATKINSON

Fort Atkinson is turned almost upside down over the developments at the Creamery Package Company, the closed shop agreement between that company and AFL and the refusal of AFL to permit certain CIO workers to join their union with the result that the latter, some of them employed 10 to 25 years, are out in the cold.

The seeming wrongs are likely to make a loud hue and cry against the Wisconsin labor law. But that is just what should be prevented.

Let us rather inquire closely into this controversy and see if we can by the use of intelligence instead of passion arrive at a conclusion that will end in constructive amendments.

The State Labor Board went to Fort Atkinson and recognized the CIO as the bargaining agent without an election but with the knowledge that there was a deep controversy between the labor organizations that might well be classified as bitter.

This ruling, and the right to make it, has seemed from the time the Little Wagner Bill was introduced at Madison entirely wrong to us. The Post-Crescent criticized empowering the Board with any such authority when it was first proposed. Thus was created a haphazard way of arriving at the truth and thus was created and put into the labor board's hands a strictly arbitrary power.

Now, down at Fort Atkinson CIO men who are out of work declare they joined that organization "because the state labor board recognized it as the bargaining agent."

The facts demonstrated at Fort Atkinson,—when the facts finally came out,—that even with the advantage of the labor board ruling the CIO was in a minority. When an election was finally called, AFL nosed the other organization out although by a narrow margin. Then the closed shop agreement with the employer necessitated everyone joining AFL or being out of a job.

This whole scenery looks to us a good deal like like throwing the workers around as so many pieces of baggage. They were denied the right to make an original choice. They were naturally influenced by the labor's board's recognition of CIO as the bargaining agent. Yet when they followed that choice many of them find themselves peremptorily dismissed from jobs.

The controversy suggests something more than a necessary change in the law. It suggests to workers the high desirability of refraining from reading the Riot Act to everyone among their numbers.

There is the implication from Fort Atkinson that the CIO men who lost their jobs were agitators more than workers. But that is hard to dovetail with their long employment.

But the needless and fascist decision of the board giving bargaining rights to one group without ascertaining that it was a majority was what put poison in the cup.

In Wisconsin's effort at sane handling of labor controversies it would seem appropriate for the leadership of AFL to carefully scrutinize the facts and see whether these men were merely voted out for personal or for sound reasons. As things stand at Fort Atkinson unionism has only become a threat and one bad feature of Wisconsin's Little Wagner Law makes the entire law look like a leering sort of clown.

The scientists of TVA made a black error by joyfully publishing the fact that they have developed a fertilizer that will raise the yield of the soil ten times above what is expected by ordinary methods from worn-out fields.

This must be almost too much for Mr. Wallace who is desperately looking for something to stop the soil from growing as much as it does.

But from the financial standpoint it is even more twisted. We are induced to spend hundreds of millions for power plants with the promise they will produce farm fertilizer cheap and just as they begin to do their stuff we may need an army, or at least a billion dollars, to prevent the farmers from producing what they do.

After having produced chocolate from coal tar, German industry now is making candy from wood.

Revenues for the national organization of the American Red Cross for the 1935-36 fiscal year were $11,565,293.74.

APPLETON'S principal winter sport is getting under way this week . . . and it isn't skating, skiing, imbibing, griping about the weather or shoveling snow . . . the top sport is telling-what-my-thermometer-said-about-the-temperature . . . yesterday's zero experience started the season off in fine shape . . . first I heard somebody mention something about it being zero . . . then up comes another thermometer-looker with two below report . . . this, of course, could not last . . . along came a six below . . . all of these, naturally, were readings from accurate thermometers in shaded places . . . ask the people who get the information . . . six below, I thought should have held it . . . but, on the way to lunch, I heard a couple of gents discussing the weather . . . "vessir," said one to the other, "it was eight below on my thermometer this morning" . . .

Now just wait until a really cold spell comes along and see what happens. Then the sky's the limit and the first liar hasn't even a ghost of a chance.

I don't like to mention it, of course, but my thermometer said nine below. Or it would have if I'd had the nerve to put it outside.

To clear up any questions in your mind as a result of that last comment, I am referring to the thermometer. It can't take it. I have to.

Goody, goody, folks. The federal income tax blanks are now out.

Reminding me that I liked the cartoon showing the doctor coming to the door of a maternity ward to tell the distraught father that he was to be congratulated on an eight pound, blue eyed tax exemption.

"Lichty" (born Lichtenstein) who drew it and who does "Grin and Bear It" that appears in the P-C, was in the University of Michigan the same time that your correspondent was at Madison. We had more good cartoonists for the campus magazine there than did the people at Michigan, but none like Lichty whose college stuff was basically the same as the cartoons he turns out today.

If new picture magazines keep popping up with such astonishing regularity, the nation is going to get to the point where people will forget how to read.

And the publishers may run out of titles.

This is what comes of the candid camera craze, however.

The amount of photographic trash that appears in some of them, incidentally, is terrific.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

GOD IS SO GOOD!

God is so good to me,
I promised Him
This year He will not see
My faith grow dim.
No trouble is too hard
For me to bear,
My evening sky is starred
With loving care.

The darkest moment brings
Some ray of light,
A constellation swings
Into my night;
And from a lowly place
My soul can rise,
To gather strength and grace
From Paradise.

God is so good to me!
I cannot pay
For blessed hours to be;
For yesterday!
No matter what befalls,
His way is best!
Thank God for the four walls
His love has blessed!

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Jan. 5, 1928
Several members of the fire department, including Chief George P. McGillan and Assistant Chief Nick Reuter, escaped serious injury when gas explosions rocked the residence of H. G. Noyes, 215 S. Oak street, after a fire had started in a rubbish box in the basement about 3:30 Thursday morning.

Rehearsals were started this week for the musical comedy, "His Honor, the Mayor," which will be given at Lawrence Memorial chapel for the benefit of the 120th Field Artillery band. Among members of the cast are J. F. Bannister, Harry Oaks, J. M. Van Rooy, Miss Margaret Boslough, Miss Dora Eflin and Miss Maude Harwood.

Abe Stone was elected president of Neenah High school glee club Wednesday afternoon and other officers named were Gerald Stacker, vice president; Philip Hahl, secretary and treasurer, and Harvey Jorgenson, librarian.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Jan. 9, 1913
Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday with a capital stock of $25,000 by the Appleton Marble and Granite works, the firm being composed of George Wolf, Theodore Sanders and B. Zuehlke.

What is claimed to be a record for Outagamie county in the Holstein line was made by a 5-year-old cow owned by Frank Puth, Grand Chute. In a 7-day test, under the supervision of R. B. Billings, representative of the Wisconsin experimental station, the cow gave 538.8 pounds of milk containing 19.46 pounds of fat. A marriage license has been issued to Frank Jacob, Appleton, and Mary C. Klassen, Kaukauna.

Mark Catlin yesterday afternoon set a bowling record at the Katsoulas alleys when he hit the pins for a 278 count.

Industrial disputes during the fiscal year 1936-37 resulted in the loss of approximately 26 million man-days.

OFF ON A NEW TRAIL

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

ANGINA PECTORIS
The inherent characteristic feature of the vague state known as "neurathenia"—which is certainly not what the name implies, that is, nerve weakness, nor lack of nervous "energy," since there is no such energy recognized in physiology—is quick fatigability. The most reasonable explanation for this, in my opinion, is anoxia, oxygen deficiency in the tissues and cells. How to correct the deficiency or get more oxygen into the tissues and cells is a problem for the physician to deal with according to the condition in the individual case. I wish I might say a few whiffs of oxygen from a tank from time to time will fix you up, but it is not so. It is rather a question of absorbing oxygen than one of just inhaling it.

Physicians ascribe some other-wise unaccountable errors of judgment at altitudes above 8000 feet to oxygen deficiency, anoxemia, anoxia, mild asphyxia. Such "pilot error" probably explains some mysterious airplane accidents. All of the symptoms of anoxia may occur in some persons when they visit places of some altitude, and a prompt return to or near sea level may be necessary to prevent "nervous breakdown."

The precise cause of seizures of heart-pang in angina pectoris is not known because the examination of the heart and arteries reveals nothing in such cases, that may not be found in other cases where there has never been an attack. Of the various theories proposed to explain the paroxysm the most plausible at present is the theory of anoxia, oxygen deficiency in the heart muscle. Treatment based on this conception gives excellent results, both inhalations of oxygen or better carboxygen (oxygen with 5 to 7 per cent carbon dioxide) and subcutaneous injections of oxygen.

The tablets of nitroglycerin (glycerol, glyceryl trinitrate) carried by many angina sufferers to take as an emergency relief when threatened with an attack, are not a heart stimulant, but a rapidly acting (two minutes) vasodilator, that is, they cause dilation of the affected coronary arteries which supply blood to the heart muscle, and so bring more oxygen to the area of oxygen deficiency. From 1-200th to 1-100 of a grain of nitroglycerin in such tablet may be taken without danger by anybody; the effect lasts perhaps half an hour. In fact many angina patients take such a dose of nitroglycerin three or four times a day for weeks or months with benefit and without any risk of unwelcome effect. It is true that nitroglycerin is not a heart stimulant and is useless in circulatory failure, but it does not follow from that fact that it is harmful in any way.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Fresh and Canned
Are canned foods as nourishing as fresh? (Mrs. J. A.)

Answer—Yes. They lose some of their vitamins, particularly vitamin C, in the canning process.

Infantile Paralysis
Any risk involved in boy aged 9 years who had infantile paralysis six months ago sleeping with healthy boy aged 9? (Mrs. J. B.)

Answer—No. Infantile paralysis is no longer communicable after the acute feverish stage (the first three weeks or so).

Your Birthday

"CAPRICORN"
If January 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 A. M.; from 2:30 to 4:30 P. M. and from 8:30 to 10:30 P. M. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 A. M.; from 4:30 to 6:30 P. M. and from 10:30 P. M. until midnight.

You must have plenty of self-assurance this day. If you have a firm conviction, stick to it, and let no one talk you out of it. Some prudish influence will be the cause of an unusual amount of pettiness, in discussions pertaining to social activities. You will gain more by controlling your temper this day than by losing it. There might be a strong temptation to do things in a headlong, pell-mell fashion. This must be resisted, for your personal affairs to turn out satisfactorily. Qualified statements are likely to be the only ones safe to make this day. Statements made without restrictions might be taken advantage of to your embarrassment. Married and engaged couples, as well as those engaged in the pursuit of romantic happiness will find if they try to throw dust into anyone's eyes this day they are liable to get some into their own.

If a woman and January 7 is your birthday, you may find yourself in clover through some good fortune. You are perhaps able to feel at home anywhere. You ought to have a quick wit, ready tongue and a keen appreciation of humor. Success is likely to come to you if you are exceptionally well-informed regarding some particular subject. Be cautious in money matters, especially in the way you make use of credit, for it is very easy to run up an account, but sometimes it is not such a simple task to pay it off. You are probably capable of becoming a very successful actress, writer, singer, broker, business woman, artist or dietician. Marriage ought to make possible many things you have always desired, and brighten your days.

The child born on January 7, is seldom a disappointment to its parents. In the bloom of youth this youngster in all likelihood will develop some worthwhile talent that will result in a noteworthy achievement.

If a man and January 7 is your natal day, your one great danger might be in having too many diversified interests. Remember it is best to do one thing well than a number of things only fairly well. It is usually by developing one great talent that fame is won. In mining, engineering, building, authorship, medicine, chemistry, law, acting or selling you might become an unqualified success.

Successful People Born on Jan. 7:
Millard Fillmore, 13th President of the U. S.
Thomas Hill, Scholar and educator.
Mary E. Wilkins, Author.
Charles H. Davis, Artist.
Louis Imogen Guiney, Poet and author.
Israel Putnam, Revolutionary general.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER
Washington—One of the things interfering with the housing program is the age-old tradition that a man and his family should not be hastily expelled from his home for debt.
One of the means by which federal housing authorities hope to keep down the costs of financing private home building is keeping foreclosure costs low. Many states have put up high barriers against hasty foreclosure with the result that when a home building contract goes "sour" it sometimes takes many months of litigation to get the purchaser out so that a new buyer may take possession. The result is to increase the cost of financing the job—and thus to make the financing less inviting as an investment.

Eviction Expensive
Here is the picture as some housing officials see it.

A man comes to his bank asking a contract to build a house costing $5,000. Under the new housing act he will have to pay down ten per cent, $500. The bank will lend him the rest and the Federal Housing Authority will insure the whole $4,500 loan, which thus equals 90 per cent of the value of the house to be built.

When the house is built the buyer takes it over and begins paying off the loan in monthly installments. Except for the original $500 down payment, it is just like renting a house. Of course, if all goes well, the buyer owns the house at the end of 17 to 20 years.

But suppose at the end of six months, or a year, the buyer loses his job, or perhaps just becomes enervated and decides not to make any more monthly payments. What then? Under laws in some states the buyer can be expelled from the house in three weeks to a month under foreclosure proceedings. In the District of Columbia it can be done in three weeks.

But in many other states, New York and Illinois are examples, the buyer can escape conviction for a year or more, meantime making no payments and ignoring other terms of the sales contract. The Home Owners Loan Corporation, also in the mortgage field, has occasionally spent two years evicting an owner who refused to make payments.

Change Comes Slow

When that happens, the loss on the deal is greater than any possible profit to the bank making the loan at 5 to 5 1/2 per cent interest.

The result has been, federal housing authorities comment, that there has been a "tendency" on the part of some banks in these long delay foreclosure states to look two times before showing interest in these new 90 per cent loan insurance deals. The reason is that under the old 80 per cent loan operation the FHA stood the cost of the foreclosure. Under the new 90 per cent loan program the bank has to make the foreclosure and turn the house over to the FHA with the defaulting buyer already ousted.

State legislatures are being advised to change their foreclosure laws as a means of encouraging housing, but the going is slow. The old-line foreclosure laws were designed primarily to protect honest farmers from being roughly thrown into the street by a gasping mortgage holder eager to get possession of the property. The idea of making it possible for a mortgage holder to evict a man and his family from the old homestead on three or four weeks notice has not quite jelled in some spots.

One of the annoyances of the theater is the late arrival. He knows the curtain goes up at 8:40 and he purchases his tickets several weeks in advance. Yet he never arrives until the play is three or four minutes old. . . . This is annoying because the first few moments of any play are of primary importance. It gives a key to what is to follow and acquaints the audience with the time and place. To have some latecomer floundering across an entire row of seats is, to say the least, exasperating. Some theaters have adopted the custom of refusing to seat patrons who arrive after the curtain rises.

Equally distracting is the play-fearer who wanders out between acts for a smoke and doesn't get back until the second-act curtain is up. You see this time and again, night after night. I wouldn't want anything severe, like guillotining, to happen to these people, but a minor penalty, such as breaking his arm, might not be out of order.

Alfred H. Chittick probably has more time on his hands than any man in New York. . . . Maybe in the world. . . . Anyway, more than 60,000,000 watches have come to his door to be repaired, and he has shipments of mended time-pieces going out to every country in the world, every day of the week. . . . Last week he repaired a watch for Gen. Chas. E. Daves. . . . Another of his customers is Col. Lindbergh.

Willy Post, Amy Johnson, Admiral Byrd, and others have paused while Chittick scrutinized their watches. . . . Chittick used to be a Pullman porter. . . . He has made 36 visits to Niagara Falls, his favorite vacation spot.

Johnny the Call Boy, who is only 43 inches high, has other distinctions besides being master-of-ceremonies on the "Johnny Presents" radio shows. . . . Name one? . . . "Well," draws Johnny, who can really draw, "I'm the only grown man in New York who has to reach up to put a nickel in a subway slot machine."

Christopher Morley, who has had plenty of literary squabbles in recent years, is one of the few real classicists who is a two-fisted guy at the same time. . . . Call one of his scholarly phrases and you'll hear about it.

Move Colonial House
Of 1712 to Rochester
Haverhill, Mass.—An eight-room Colonial house, built in 1712, has migrated to New York.

G. Holden Green of Boston bought the house, built by John Hutchins, a ship builder, and it will be restored to its original form at Rochester, N. Y.

The house, one of the best examples of 18th Century architecture, has ornate paneling throughout. Its timbers are hand hewn and pegged with wooden pegs. Split boards were used instead of laths. A huge center chimney from which lead four fireplaces, is of bricks fashioned from clay and straw.

CLASS OF 1927 REUNION
Editor Post-Crescent
As a member of the 1927 graduating class of Appleton High school, who received no invitation to the class reunion held recently, I thought it would be interesting to find out how many more of my classmates were surprised on reading about it in the Post-Crescent after it had taken place.

Of course, I was not one of the prominent members of the class, but I understood that we would all be notified as to when the reunion would be held.

I have lived in Appleton all of the ten years since graduating and am sure it would not have been difficult to locate me, had an effort been made.

I am not trying to criticize the committee nor am I peeved on being left out, but I would like to know, just for curiosity's sake, how many more 1927 graduates, like myself, learned about the reunion by reading an account of it in the paper after it was over with.

I am also pretty sure that I am not the only one who did not receive an invitation.

A 1927 graduate.

Algebra Added to Test For Cleveland Firemen

Cleveland—Future Cleveland firemen must be more intellectual, the civil service commission has ruled.

Following a poor showing of applicants for police jobs, Laurence J. Young, secretary of the commission, announced:

"In the past fire department applicants could have two years high school or the equivalent, which meant anyone could take the civil service examination for firemen. This time there will be more than 400 questions in a three-hour examination. References are Hughes' 'Building Citizenship,' Magruder's 'American Government,' Lake's 'Exploring the World of Science' and any elementary algebra textbook."

Schell Sets Pace For Commercial League Bowlers

Scores 592-Pin Series; Ashauer Gets 232 High Game

Standings:	W. L.
Little Chute	28 20
Miller High Life	26 19
Pantry Lunch	25 20
Gertz Tavern	25 23
Mellow Brews	23 25
Hopfenspergers	21 21
Post Office	19 23
Gustmans	19 23

Kaukauna—Charley Schell hit a series of 592 and A. Ashauer a high game of 232 to lead bowlers in the Commercial league rolling at the Schell alleys last night. The league leading Little Chute Bottlers increased their first place margin over the Miller High Lives by taking two of three from the Gustmans. D. Riessen's 558 on games of 185, 185 and 188 led the winners, with B. Ives' games of 167, 176 and 150 for a series of 493 pacing the Gustmans.

The Pantry Lunch five took two of three from the Mellow Brews to go into third place. Bill Redat cracked the maples for counts of 191, 189 and 183 for a 543 series to tie the Lunchers, while Bud Jirikowicz's series of 501 was high for the Brews.

A. Ashauer's 560 on games of 162, 166 and 232 led the Miller High Lives to two out of three games over the Gertz Tavern leggers. J. Van Lieshout's 518 on counts of 200, 164 and 148 led the losers.

In the final match of the evening the Post Office quintet took two of three from the Hopfensperger team. Leo Nagan's 497 including a game of 199 topped the Post Office five, with Charley Schell hitting games of 225, 168 and 199 for 592 to pace the losers.

Post Office Receipts Show Slight Increase

Kaukauna—Postal receipts for December were $3,585.06, an increase over the $3,499.67 receipts of December a year ago, according to R. H. McCarty, postmaster.

Outgoing first class mail during the Christmas rush was 10 per cent greater than in 1936, with receipts of first class mail for local delivery 15 per cent greater than in 1936.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Kaukauna Relief Load Increases During December

Opening of 21 New Cases Brings City Total To 103

Kaukauna—The largest increase in relief cases for several months occurred in December, Joseph V. Krahn, relief director, reported yesterday. With the 21 new cases opened last month there are now 103 city cases.

Five relief cases were closed during December. There were 25 re-imbursement county cases here, making a total of 131.

WPA employed 45 men and 9 women; NYA employed 9 girls and 4 boys. Six new men were placed on WPA on Jan. 4.

Total expense for relief cases for last month was $3,479.30. Items were groceries, $884, meat, $97, milk, $121, board and care, $346, and fuel, $341. Rent was $364, clothing, $19, medical care, $267, and drugs, $33.

Hospitalization was $151, and office expense $22. Reimbursed county charges amounted to $813.

Social Items

Kaukauna—A sleigh ride party will be held soon by members of the St. Mary's Catholic Youth Organization, Kenneth Vils, president, said yesterday. Other activities now being planned by the organization includes a gym class to be held three times a week. Lillian Vils, Marvin Skalmusky, Pearl Wagner and Kenneth Vils are in charge of this activity.

The committee in charge of the sleigh ride party is composed of Mildred Hubney, Pearl Wagner, Marcus Nigl and John Buckinger.

Library Circulates 4,000 Books in Month

Kaukauna—The circulation of books from the Kaukauna public library in December was 3,967, according to librarian Miss Bernice Tapper. Of this number 1,535 were loan to children, and 2,432 to adults. The total represents a loss of 486 volumes in comparison with November, but a gain of 887 books over December of 1936.

Twenty-nine new readers were registered and 56 registrations were cancelled. Ninety-six new books were added to the shelves, the collection now amounting to 7,450 volumes. One hundred and eighteen children attended the two Christmas story hours held in December.

Pig Fair to be Held on Dodge Street Grounds

Kaukauna—The first monthly pig fair sponsored by the Tri-County Fair association for the new year will be held at the Dodge street fairgrounds on Saturday. Dodge street will be closed by police order during the fair.

Removal of Crib on Library Lot Marks End of Yule Season

Kaukauna—The Christmas season will formally depart from Kaukauna this week when the crib, depicting the Nativity, erected on the lot next to the public library, is dismantled. The eight life size figures in the scene received much comment from residents and visitors during the holidays.

The following organizations made possible the crib's erection: Holy Cross Court No. 309, C. O. F., St. Mary's Court No. 118, C. O. F., St. Ann Court No. 226, W. C. O. F., Sacred Heart Court No. 558, W. C. O. F., St. Mary's Altar society, Holy Cross Christian Mothers, Catholic Knights of W. J. Lefevre and Misses.

4 Rotarians Attend All Meetings of 1937

Kaukauna—Four members of the Rotary club attended every meeting of the last year, a survey of attendance records reveals. They were H. S. Cooke, W. P. Hagman, Ben G. Prugh and H. F. Weckwerth.

Members present all but one time were Dr. C. D. Boyd, J. P. Ditter and Henry W. Olm. Those absent but twice were Dale E. Andrews, Dr. E. J. Bolinske, C. J. Hansen, Joseph W. Lefevre and Arthur C. Look.

Every member of the club was present at eight meetings during the year. Attendance was highest in the month of July, when an average of 97.5 attendance was set. The low month was March, with 89 per cent present.

Tax Collections Total $6,000 in First Week

Kaukauna—The first week of the collection of Kaukauna taxes resulted in a total of more than $6,000 finding its way into the city's coffers, Mrs. Mary Hoeyman, city treasurer, said yesterday. This amount is about the same as in other years.

Dog licenses were bought by 13 persons. Taxes are collected daily in the treasurer's office in the municipal building from 9 to 12 o'clock in the morning and from 1:30 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—just two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Fire Loss $53,000 Higher Than 1936

Total for Last Year Is Largest in City's History, Esler Says

Kaukauna—Fire losses in Kaukauna for 1937 were more than $53,000 more than in 1936, Chief Henry Esler reported yesterday. The total for last year was $37,119.76, compared to a total of $3,694.51 in 1936. Last year's losses were the largest ever incurred, Esler said.

The main item in the fire loss occurred when the Central Block burned, with damages for this fire estimated at $29,231.65. The Kaukauna and Appleton fire departments fought this fire for five hours, it being the only occasion on which the assistance of an outside fire department was asked.

Three runs were made outside the city limits during the year. These were to the rural homes of Henry Van Schyndel in the town of Vanderbroek and Joseph Jansen and John Grafmeier in the town of Buchanan. The total rural loss was $7,173.10.

Sixty-six runs were made by the fire department in the city.

For Bronchitis-Tough Old Coughs

It's different—it's faster in action—it's compounded on superior, medical fact findings new in this country. HUCKLEY'S MIXTURE (Triple action) is the name of this prescription that "acts like a flash"—it's really wonderful to watch how speedily hard, lingering colds are put out of business. Right away that tightness begins to loosen up—coughing ceases—bronchial passages clear—you're on your toes again—happy and breathing easier. Get HUCKLEY'S today at any first-class drug store—a single tin tells why HUCKLEY'S out-sells all other cough and cold remedies in cold-winter Canada. Vot's Drug Store. —Adv.

Mrs. H. A. Rasmussen, Mrs. Irvin Paul, Mrs. H. Flanagan, Mrs. W. Tate and Mrs. P. C. Bates. The next meeting will be held Tuesday Feb. 1. The serving committee for the next meeting will include Mrs. George Schenk, Mrs. Irvin Paul, Mrs. T. E. Gough and Mrs. D. D. Bechard.

A daughter was born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Erickson.

WIN AGAINST UNCLE San Jose, Calif.—There's been a good deal of picketing lately and it hasn't gone unnoticed by Bruno Filice and Frankie Lico, both 8 years old. Their uncle, M. J. Filice, saw them walking before his place of business with placards reading: "Unfair. My uncle won't pay me for picking prunes." The crisis was settled with two $5 bills.

New League Chapter to be Formed Here

A TEA preliminary to the organization of the first Wisconsin chapter of the Pan-American League in Appleton will be held from 3 to 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Hearstone tea room. President Thomas N. Barrows of Lawrence college will speak on his travels in Latin-American countries, stressing the difference between the various republics.

The Pan-American League was organized in 1930 in Miami, Fla., the outgrowth of a goodwill visit to Cuba by a group of women. It was founded on the principle that "this is an age of fast disappearing barriers and it is important in the interests of prosperity and peace to deepen reciprocal understanding between the nations of the New World." Its aim is to further through cultural and social channels friendly contacts between Latin-American countries and the United States.

Since its organization, the league has established chapters in Central

Fullinwider Impressed by Stephan Hero

WHEN Stephan Hero, brilliant young violinist who plays at Memorial chapel Monday night, was still a child prodigy, Professor Percy Fullinwider of Lawrence Conservatory of Music had an opportunity to observe him at his lessons.

Hero was then studying Louis Persinger, the eminent teacher of Menuhin and Ricci. Of that experience Professor Fullinwider says:

"During the eight weeks I was with Mr. Persinger I heard Mr. Hero play from memory some eight or 10 concertos, including the Beethoven D Major, the Mendelssohn E Minor, the Brahms D Major, the Tchaikowsky D Major, and many modern works. The musicianship and technical equipment of this boy then 13 years of age, was amazing. At that time Mr. Persinger predicted a brilliant future for Mr. Hero. And it has been fulfilled. His rapid rise to the front ranks of concert violinists and his solo appearances with every major symphony orchestra in America in the past two years testify to his unusual success."

Hero will be the third artist to appear on the Community Artists Series. His concert will start at 8:30 Monday night.

Both Senators From Wisconsin Invited To Party for Garners

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington — Both Wisconsin senators and their wives will be the guests tonight at the dinner which the President and Mrs. Roosevelt are giving for the vice president and Mrs. Garner. Inasmuch as the largest state dinner ever held at the white house was a diplomatic dinner determined by the department of state and it numbered only 102 guests including ambassadors, ministers, and their wives, it is considered significant that both Wisconsin senators Robert M. La Follette Jr., Progressive, and F. Ryan Duffy, Democrat, and their wives are invited to the dinner for the vice president tonight.

If all senators and their wives were invited, the senatorial group alone would account for more than the horseshoe table in the state dining room can accommodate, for the senatorial group would amount to nearly 190 persons, more than were

Young People's Group To Hold Sleigh Party

Plans for a sleighride party to be held Feb. 1 were made at the meeting of Junior Young People's society of St. Paul Lutheran church Tuesday night in the school hall. The Rev. F. M. Brandt led Bible study after which games were played.

ever served in that dining room, the chief dining room of our country.

While the complete list of guests at tonight's state dinner will not be given out until late today, it is considered almost unique that both of a state's senators should be invited to one state dinner.

To Get the Best Cough Remedy, Mix It at Home

Quicker Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This famous recipe is used by millions of housewives, because there is no other way to obtain such a dependable, effective remedy for coughs that start from colds. It's so easy to mix — a child can do it.

From any drugstore, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its effect on throat and bronchial membranes. Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed. Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of cough remedy, far superior to anything you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant — children love it. You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving you double quick relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Keshena Indians Allow No Fishing On Reservation

Trout Streams Still Closed
To Outsiders as Fire
Prevention Measure

Trout streams on the Indian reservation at Keshena probably will be closed until at least 1939, according to Ralph Fredenberg, superintendent of the Keshena Indian agency. The tribal council is likely to meet once or twice before the trout season and the opening may be considered, Fredenberg indicated.

The tribal council a year ago decided to close fishing on the reservation to outsiders for two years as a fire prevention measure. Although fishermen were not responsible for all fires that started on the reservation, a record of fires over a 10-year period showed they were responsible for many. Some of the others were started by motorists who tossed lighted cigarettes from cars.

A 2-year fire lane building project is underway. The project will include 50 miles of fire lanes to protect the north line and situated corner of the reservation which are most exposed to outside fire hazards.

Construction of a 100-foot tower at the central point on the reservation also is planned. At present there is a 75-foot tower, but it has several blind spots.

U. W. Prof Is Named New Zealand Adviser

Madison — (U. W.) Prof. J. H. Kolb, head of the department of rural sociology at the University of Wisconsin, announced today he has accepted a temporary appointment as adviser to the government of New Zealand.

He has asked a leave of absence for the second semester of the current school term, beginning next month, and plans to resume his duties at the university next fall.

Prof. Kolb said he had accepted an invitation from the New Zealand minister of scientific research to assist for six months in developing a bureau of sociological research in the British colony.

He completed plans recently at a conference in New York with F. P. Keppel and John M. Russell, officials of the Carnegie foundation, who are working with officials of New Zealand on several phases of governmental research.

Children Bundled Up, Cars Treated as Mercury Slips Below Zero

Mothers wrapped their children up in heavy clothing before sending them to school, car owners nursed cold motors back to warmth, and citizens showed a special interest in the thermometer yesterday as one of the winter's coldest waves hit the city.

A Post-Crescent photographer went out in the morning to find just what effect sub-zero weather has on citizens' actions and appearances, and the accompanying pictures show what he saw.

In the upper left hand corner are three high school students coming out into the cold from the comfort of the building. They are, left to right, Jack Breur, 827 W. Spencer street, Patricia Smith, 1217 S. Jefferson street, and Viola Dertus, 1216 S. Jackson street.

In the upper right hand picture, Alvin Barnetke, 1525 W. Lawrence street, is testing the radiator solution in one of his customer's cars to be sure it won't freeze. The customer is B. J. Weiland, 826 W. Elsie street.

Close inspection of the thermometer is being made by R. J. Tutter, 727 W. Fifth street, in the lower left hand picture, who probably feels colder than ever now that he's seen the reading.

Two Zion grade school children, well fortified against the bitter temperatures, are shown in the picture directly to the left. The youngsters, both first grade pupils, are Donna Kasten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kasten, 1403 N. Division street, and Betty Jane Otto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Otto, 1711 N. Appleton street. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Concrete Design Will be Studied

3-Day Course Next Week
At Appleton Vocational School

Architects and contractors from Fox river valley and other Wisconsin cities will meet here next week for a course in architectural concrete which will be taught by W. D. Kimmel, Milwaukee, district engineer for the Portland Cement association.

Modern methods of producing unusual effects in concrete design, popular on the Pacific coast, will be explained at the sessions Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings at the Appleton Vocational school.

Harry J. Carlton, Chicago, regional structural engineer of the association, and John H. Banker, Chicago, former construction superintendent in California, will speak at the sessions.

Forms for architectural concrete, their design and erection, and fundamentals in making concrete will be topics at the first meeting Tuesday night. On Wednesday evening the men will study reinforcing, form removal, curing and protection, and design of mixers for architectural concrete. Treatment and surface textures, cleaning, patching and specifications will be discussed Thursday night.

Taxi Driver Fined $10

On Charge of Speeding

Merrill Franck, 501 W. Winnebago street, a taxi driver, was fined $10 and costs with an alternative of 20 days in the Outagamie county detention camp by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning after pleading guilty of speeding. Franck was arrested early last evening on E. College avenue by city police and indicated he would serve out the sentence.

Realty Transfers

The following real estate transfer was filed today at the office of A. L. Collar, Outagamie county register of deeds:

Walter Bleick et al to United States of America in trust for United Tribe of Indians a parcel of land in town of Oneida.

It Is Said..

That it doesn't seem reasonable, but somebody went to the office of Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer, this week, probably to pay taxes and had more money than he needed.

Anyway, there's some money left in the office that doesn't belong to Kox or any of his helpers and the person who lost it is invited to call. By giving proper identification and explaining the approximate amount of the money and the kind of bills, the owner won't have any trouble retrieving it, Kox says.

Committee Cuts Over 118 Million From Funds Bill trade commission $2,180,700; securities and exchange commission, $3,907,000; social security board, $329,300,000 and rural electrification administration $31,652,000.

In addition, the measure carries a direct appropriation of $200,000 and a contract authorization of $340,000 for construction of a new wind tunnel for the government's aviation laboratory at Langley field, Va. The committee said this device was essential to solutions of problems in design and construction of the larger airplanes now projected, particularly those for use in trans-oceanic service.

Washington — (U. W.) John Carmody, rural electrification administrator, told a house appropriations subcommittee the REA had on hand loan applications totaling $73,000,000.

This, he said, compared with a recommended budget of $30,000,000 for the 1939 fiscal year. His statements were published today in the record of the subcommittee's hearings on the annual supply bill for independent government agencies.

Carmody listed 19 states in which the excess of applications over funds available exceeded $1,000,000. They were Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Texas, Ohio, Michigan, Georgia, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Indiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Illinois, Missouri, Colorado, New Mexico, Idaho and Pennsylvania.

"The $30,000,000 appropriation requested for the fiscal year 1939," Carmody said, "is only enough to enable us to meet a portion of the most urgent needs for projects in areas which have no electric service."

"We are convinced that either government neglect or further curtailment of the government's program must end either in the strangling of rural electrification or resort hereafter to outright and costly subsidy."

Carmody said REA now had 323 projects in 40 states. Loans as of mid-November amounted to $72,000,000.

Wisconsin to Fight Water Ruling Change

Madison — (U. W.) Governor LaFollette today authorized Attorney General Orlan S. Loomis to oppose any attempt to change the United States Supreme court decision prohibiting the Chicago Sanitary district from taking more than 1,600 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan after Dec. 31, 1938.

The attorney general sought the governor's approval of fighting attempts which Loomis said were being made in Washington to circumvent the high court's ruling through legislation.

The Wisconsin Great Lakes Harbor association and the Wisconsin Deep Waterways commission had appealed to Loomis at a conference in Milwaukee to work with their representatives against any diversion in excess of that allowed by the supreme court.

Governor LaFollette told Loomis to "take such steps as are necessary" to protect Wisconsin's interests.

Says Sensational Radio Programs are Harmful to Youth

Milwaukee — (U. W.) Family Court Judge William F. Shaugnessy told the radio committee of the city council of parent-teacher associations last night that sensational and immoral radio programs directly contribute to juvenile delinquency and constitute a "threat to our civilization which only the home makers of America can combat."

"I resent the reeking dirt and immorality some radio programs contain," he said.

"The programs most attractive to children are the sensational ones dealing with crime... The dramatic interludes sandwiched into musical programs, portraying the familiar triangle and showing utter disregard for family loyalty, are teaching an insidious lesson that will lead to disintegration of homes in the future."

He asked his audience to demand dramatization of wholesome boy's classes for the radio in place of gangster and love stories.

Strikers Reject New Proposal of Canning Company

Union Has Until Tonight to Give Further Consideration to Offer

New London — A new proposal by officials of the Hamilton and Sons canning company plant to end a strike of the employees was rejected by the Cannery Employees local No. 1107 at a mass meeting with the officials at Labor hall last night.

The officials gave the local up to 6 o'clock tonight to give further consideration to the offer which gives a 10-cent per hour wage increase to all men and women employees who had worked 120 days during 1937.

Robert McFarlin, labor organizer, said that virtually no one was employed a full five months at the plant last season but Henry Hamilton, company president, said about 150 of the 215 employees would immediately be eligible. The strikers were meeting again this afternoon, but McFarlin said other matters were to be considered.

Different proposals were submitted by the Hamilton company on Tuesday and Wednesday. Another which also was rejected provided that only union workers be employed at the plant, new workers to be taken into the union after a 30-day probationary period, but all old employees who had served that period in 1937 were to be eligible to the union at once. Hamilton said it was to prevent a small group of union workers from taking all the jobs, while McFarlin contended acceptance of the proposal would vote the present strikers out of their jobs.

Defends Bingo as Big Attraction at Fairs

Milwaukee — (U. W.) Edward H. Brodie, Milwaukee corn game concessionaire, told the Wisconsin Association of Fairs yesterday that state fairs "must" cooperate with the bingo and corn operators.

Brodie said "people will drive miles to play bingo" and that the revenue fairs receive from the game is a substantial part of the total.

James F. Malone, Beaver Dam, secretary of the organization, said the game was played cleanly at the fairs, and that there was trouble in only one of 72 Wisconsin fairs in 1937.

Thomas L. Bewick of Madison, state 4-H club leader, told delegates that the growth of 4-H clubs refuted the claim that fairs are no longer useful.

Seek New Proposals on Police Radio Equipment

Because only one bid was submitted on police radio equipment for the various Outagamie county municipalities, the police radio committee at the court house yesterday rejected the proposal and decided to readvertise for bids. The new bids will be opened at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 19, by the committee.

6th District Nurses Gather at Hospital

Dr. H. F. O'Brien gave a talk on the "Value of X-Ray in Dentistry" at a meeting of the Sixth district Wisconsin Nurses association last night at the St. Elizabeth hospital. Dr. Truman J. Seiler, Neenah, gave a performance of magic. Miss Marie Klein, Outagamie county nurse, is president of the district.

Hospital Staff Names Dr. Benton President

Dr. J. L. Benton was named president of the St. Elizabeth hospital staff at a meeting Tuesday evening at the hospital. He succeeds Dr. E. L. Bolton. Dr. W. O. Dehne was reelected secretary and Dr. W. Towne was named vice president.

FOR GOODNESS SAKE...!

On hearing a Vertichord for the first time many people exclaim "For goodness sake what does that quality come from?" Actual words and subjects of exclamations differ, of course; but all indicate keen appreciation for one or more of the fine musical and artistic qualities found only in genuine Haddorff Vertichords. These qualities are the result of more than forty years experience in creating fine pianos... they are built into Vertichords for the sake of "goodness" in the product. It is always a pleasure to demonstrate the many good qualities of Haddorff Vertichords. Will you share that pleasure, at our showrooms, today?

Friends on Eighteenth Pilgrimage To Grave of Theodore Roosevelt

Cove Neck, N. Y. — (U. W.) At the quiet end of the pilgrimage of a modern "Mr. Greatheart," Theodore Roosevelt died in his sleep 19 years ago, and today men and women who never have forgotten him gather at his grave here, as they have done on this day these last 18 years.

The shrine of the little band of his friends—a band now less by two since the last trip to Cove Neck in the death of William Loebe, Sr., long a Roosevelt secretary, and Father J. J. Curran—the old-fashioned iron-fenced burial ground where lies the body of the twenty-sixth president, a man who never knew neutral ground.

The ceremony at the grave done, a ceremony now so familiar that it is one of simple remembrance and not of tears, the men and women celebrating his memory will join Mrs. Roosevelt for luncheon at the home on Sagamore hill—Daniel Carter Beard, the Boy Scout leader, Herman Hagerman of the Roosevelt Memorial association, and others.

Roosevelt, he of the big stick, the fighting phrase, died in the old house in the gathering twilight of his public career, at a time when already the world's scholars were looking back at his political life through the warm glamour that the years had spun.

He had carried stoutly through the last great disappointment of his life—the refusal of the Wilson administration to let him lead troops in France.

Nobody ever just liked him; they loved him or they hated him, as he had caused them to do with his thunders against "weasel words" and "weaklings."

He had never softened a blow, for, as he said, "never strike soft. If you must hit a man, put him to sleep."

These and other epigrams he brought into a language as alive today as it was before he took a last nap at Sagamore hill.

"Speak softly," he would say, "but carry a big stick."

"My spear knows no brother, I have teeth and I can use them."

"Better faithful than famous."

And then, the greatest trumpet call of them all:

"We stand at Armageddon and we battle for the Lord!"

FRIDAY'S GAMES
Neenah at Clintonville.
Kaukauna at New London.
Menasha at West DePere.

NEW LONDON — A much improved New London High school cage squad will oppose the Kaukauna basketball team on the home floor here Friday evening in a conference game.

Much has been learned by the green 1937 team in the past seven games, five of which were on strange floors and four of them conference tilts. While the Stacymen were victorious in only their first game with Waupaca, a different story appears probable in the series of home games which will start with the Kaws tomorrow night.

So far the local boys have suffered lack of support on the part of the New London public with a very small following at the several home games and practically none, including students, away from home.

Currently the big bugaboo holding back the varsity is the lack of a shooting eye. As demonstrated in recent games the boys have improved their ball handling and floor work to the point of being polished and time and again have broken through opposing defenses only to miss the shot at the hoop. They also have suffered at the free throw line.

Practice Shooting
With all the weaknesses in mind Coaches D. N. Siasy, and Gregory Charleworth have been instructing intensively the past week on the fine points of the game and in shooting accuracy. Defense methods and offensive tactics have been improved. Tuesday night Weyauwega High school came to town and indulged in some valuable scrimmage with the Stacymen.

Little change has been made in the lineup of recent games except that Jim Meschnick has been tried at guard and Don Stern at center. Meschnick may prove more formidable at guard with Stewart Hammerberg or Francis Meinhardt, both regulars. Bernard Stern and Douglas Hoier are set at forwards.

The "B" squads will play a preliminary game Friday night at 7 o'clock with the regular fringes starting at 8 o'clock. The second string is regarded as a pretty fair squad, composed mostly of last year's champion inter-city freshman team, and is looking forward to another win after several losses.

Players Like Rule Eliminating Center Jump in Basketball Tilt

BY HAROLD HARRISON
INDIANAPOLIS — Profound opinions about the new basketball rules have come from scores of coaches whose "mental anguish" must leave them physical wrecks at the close of a season and from grandstand and press box experts who "see all-know-all tell all" — but how about the boys in the trenches?

How about the fellows who have the actual job of producing field goals? How do they feel about it all?

Take tiny Jerry Steiner, for instance (his opponents haven't been able to catch up with him, let alone take him).
Steiner, five feet, seven inches of basketball dynamite, has been leading scorer and spark plug for a Butler university team that has won seven of its first eight games, defeating such outfits as Michigan, Pittsburgh, Northwestern, Cincinnati and Boston University.
"I like it," was Steiner's verdict on the center-jumpless game. They grinned and added, "it gives me an edge."

"The new rules have put little guys like me back in the ball game," he said.
"Of course, the game is some faster, but it will slow down. There isn't any reason why teams should play fire department basketball all the time."

And now about the physical effect.

Little Fatigue
"Oh, I guess I'm a little more tired after a game now than before the rules change, but I come out of it just as fast as before," he said. "I don't see that the new game causes any more lasting fatigue."
Now to go to the other extreme. There's Bill Merrill, six foot, one inch, 190 pound center for Butler, who has had his jumping duties taken away by the new rules.
"Suits me fine," said Merrill. "In fact, it makes it easier for me. It takes more energy to make one center jump, particularly against a real tall opponent, than it does for a couple of dashes up and down the floor. Don't let anyone kid you, the job of jumping center after every field goal took plenty out of a player."
"I'm not any more tired after a game now than I was before the change."

HEADLINE WINTER TENNIS MEET

Frick Says New Ball Will Give Pitchers Even Break

BY FORD FRICK

(President of the National League)

NEW YORK — There's a wider range of vision than usual for a baseball man standing at the annual crossroads. Looking forward, beyond 1938, is baseball's centennial year and when you turn around there's a century of baseball history stretching all the way back to the summer of 1839 and a village green in upstate New York.

In baseball, there's a new pennant

every year. Normally that makes your baseball outlook that way too — a one-year look — and it's always the year just ahead of you.

But because 1939 is centennial year, the whole baseball world will grow more and more 1939 conscious as 1938 moves along. The appropriation of $100,000 by the major leagues started the ball rolling for a memorable centennial celebration.

Predicts Good Year

But in looking beyond 1938 don't think I'm overlooking it. I'm expecting and predicting a great year for baseball as a whole, as well as the National League.

We are going to use a new official baseball, one that is changed only slightly, but, we think, very wisely. There is no great difference in our new ball's traveling range. A squarely-hit ball will travel just as far in 1938 as in 1937. The purpose of the slightly thickened cover and heavier seam is to give the pitchers a "break," restore some of the balance between offense and defense and eliminate the "cheap" extra base hit.

I can sum up what we're trying to do this way: In 1938 it will be just as possible as in 1937 for the winning hit of a National League game to be a home run with the bases filled; but we hope it also will be possible for the pitcher to depend on something more than a prayer — and for the infielder to play hitless as the situation demands without danger of losing an arm or a leg.

Just As Exciting

The game will really look just as fast, just as snappy, just as exciting as in 1937. In fact, it will probably look faster, because your infielders and outfielders will get more of a chance on these half-hit drives.

We don't want baseball to be very much different in 1938 than in 1937. It was a great year. Attendance figures in the National League — as in every baseball league in the country, I believe — kept on climbing. We had a close and exciting pennant race, the kind that has become typical of our league. It added up very well indeed for the National League in every column — all except victory in the all star game and the World series.

So, at the crossroads of 1937 and 1938, I think I can sum up the National League's sentiments by saying, "Good-bye, 1937. You were a pretty fine year, but we're expecting young 1938 to be a whole lot better in a couple of spots, meaning particularly a certain July afternoon in Cincinnati and a week or so in early October."

Frick Says New Ball Will Give Pitchers Even Break

BY FORD FRICK

(President of the National League)

NEW YORK — There's a wider range of vision than usual for a baseball man standing at the annual crossroads. Looking forward, beyond 1938, is baseball's centennial year and when you turn around there's a century of baseball history stretching all the way back to the summer of 1839 and a village green in upstate New York.

In baseball, there's a new pennant

every year. Normally that makes your baseball outlook that way too — a one-year look — and it's always the year just ahead of you.

But because 1939 is centennial year, the whole baseball world will grow more and more 1939 conscious as 1938 moves along. The appropriation of $100,000 by the major leagues started the ball rolling for a memorable centennial celebration.

Council Defers Formal Action on Sewer Proposal

Chairman of Improvement Committee Says Surveys Must Be Made

Neenah — The city council Wednesday night unofficially gave its approval of the recommendation submitted by the public improvement committee for the construction of several thousand feet of sewers under a WPA project starting this winter.

No action was taken on the matter, however, for Alderman William Schmidt, chairman of the committee, reported that surveys had to be made to determine the proper outlet. City Engineer A. G. Prunuske explained that the grade on streets where the sewers are to be laid is uneven and low.

Upon Alderman Schmidt's recommendation, the council instructed the committee to map plans for curbs and gutters on streets where property owners had filed petitions. Curbs and gutters are being sought on Grove street from Spruce to Division street, two blocks on Eleventh street, S. Park avenue from Wisconsin avenue to Fairview street, and on Stevens street and Congress place.

Alderman Schmidt explained that the pavement on these streets is good enough to support curbs and gutters and it is well worth the installation, and Alderman Carl Loehning added that it is impossible for property owners to keep their terraces in proper condition without curbs and gutters. He pointed out that it would be less expensive to install curbs and gutters than to keep street repair crews constantly repairing and filling in holes along the terraces.

Complaints About Mud

Then Alderman Robert Martens complained to the council that on condition of the street in front of his home, stating that the street is filled with sand and mud and when wet weather arrives huge mud and water holes form. He said that the street in front of his residence had never been repaired after it had been dug up when sewers were installed, and he complained that streets in front of other homes where the property owners hadn't paid to have the concrete installed were being fixed, while his street was left in a poor condition despite the fact he had turned over "hard-earned" money for construction of the street. The council voted to have the street repaired next summer, after Alderman Schmidt explained to the council that the reason it wasn't repaired sooner was to give the ground sufficient time to settle after the sewers had been installed.

Reporting that Soo Line officials are doing what they can to reduce switching and smoke, Alderman Anderson explained that the reason switching was not being restricted to the south end of the yards is because that section is not fully equipped to permit full switching. He added that it would cost the railroad at least $25,000 to equip the south end of the yards and were they to attempt to do their switching there now, it would cost about $20,000 a year more. Explaining that the company is not currently in a position financially to permit these additions, Alderman Anderson reported, however, that plans are being made for these changes.

Must Compromise

"There are 114 men living in the city who are employed by the Soo Line," Alderman Anderson stated, "and Neenah was glad to have the Soo Line move here from Menasha years ago and therefore must compromise until the situation can be cleared."

A huge increase in city expenditures was reported by Alderman Emil Harder, chairman of the finance committee. The city assumed 100 accounts since the last meeting amounting to $39,241.25, while the expenses for the preceding period amounted to $7,533.61. The increase, however, was noted in payment of the principal and interest on the school bond which amounted to $27,770. Other large accounts were water, $4,914.49; lighting, $1,439.46 and poor relief, $1,888.73.

The council accepted the board of health's recommendation for the purchase of a new automobile for the city nurse, Miss L. Evelyn Schell, from the Jaeger-Dowling company, the lowest bidder. Instead of turning in the nurse's old car for which $35 was allowed the street commissioner, Martin Wachholz, Alderman Loehning reported that the commissioner needs a car for transportation in order to supervise jobs throughout the city.

Traditional Rivals to Play First in New Gym

Menasha — Twin City rivals will dedicate the new Menasha High school gymnasium on Friday evening, Feb. 25, according to present plans. Although the Bluejays were scheduled to be hosts to the Red Rockets on Friday, Jan. 14, the dates of the games have been exchanged in order to permit the two natural rivals to play the first game in the new gym.

Menasha will play at Neenah on Friday, Jan. 14, instead of entertaining the Neenah team at Butte des Morts gymnasium.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent for its editorial, circulation and advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street and the telephone number is 4100. News items, copy or orders for advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or may be telephoned. This number also may be called before 7 o'clock in the evening for delivery of papers missed by carriers in Neenah or Menasha.

Chicken Pox Most Prevalent Disease During Last Year

Neenah — More cases of chicken pox were reported in Neenah during 1937 than any other contagious disease, according to the annual report of Dr. Frank O. Brunckhorst, city health officer. There were 160 cases of chicken pox in Neenah last year.

There was also a large amount of whooping cough during the year, 115 persons have contracted the disease. The number of cases of other contagion during the year is as follows:

Impetigo 42, scarlet fever 29, pink eye 21, scabies 11, measles 7, tuberculosis 4, mumps 3, German measles 3, typhoid fever 2, and erysipelas 1.

Government Farm Program Will be Topic of Meeting

Winnebago County Residents to Attend Banquet at Winneconne

Menasha — The first of two meetings to promote understanding of the government farm program will be held at 7 o'clock Monday evening at Winneconne at the village hall under the sponsorship of the County Agricultural Conservation association and the county agent's office. The meeting will start with a banquet at 7 o'clock.

The second meeting will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the county agent's office in the post office building, Oshkosh. All organized groups in Winnebago county have been invited to send representatives to the second meeting as the county agent hopes that later every organization in the county will devote one of its meetings to discussion of the farm program.

State leaders will be present at both meetings to lead the discussion. On Monday night Don Anderson, College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, will be present while on Tuesday evening Martin Andersen, University of Wisconsin, will also be present.

Group Discussion

Don Anderson will present material to use in a group discussion on the farm program while Martin Andersen will review methods of conducting open discussion in groups.

Mr. Heffernan explained that the meetings will not be an attempt to sell the present farm program, which is the Agricultural Conservation program, but will be entirely aimed at making the public better informed on the problems and needs of farmers and to discuss possible farm legislation.

"One of the weak points of the farm program has been the inability to educate even the farmers, much less the business people, in the program," the county agent stated. Under the present farm program, each township has three community committees charged with carrying out the program in their communities. Each group has its chairman. In addition there is the county committee of three farmers, making a total of 42 farmers in the county working on the program. Each of these farmers will invite a business man from his community to the banquet Monday night. State leaders will give short talks following the banquet after which an open forum discussion of the farm program will be held.

Postal Receipts Gain 6.4 Per Cent

Menasha Total for 1937 Is $160,500, Postmaster Reports

Menasha — Postal receipts during 1937 increased 6.4 per cent at the Menasha post office over receipts in 1936, according to Postmaster Joseph R. Coyle.

Receipts during 1937 amounted to $160,546.32, an increase of $9,590.77 over the preceding year when they were $150,955.55. The large volume of Christmas mailings helped swell the total.

As in other communities, more 3-cent stamps were used on Christmas cards this year than during the 1936 Christmas season. Postmaster Coyle estimated that the increase was about 5 per cent.

The above figures were incorrectly attributed to the Neenah post office in Wednesday's Post-Crescent.

Breeders to Discuss Dairy Herd Management

Menasha — Two meetings important to dairy farmers were scheduled for today at the county agent's office in the post office building at Oshkosh. The county Holstein breeders met this afternoon and Guernsey breeders will meet tonight.

Both meetings were called to discuss bull associations and dairy herd management. All dairymen interested in either of those breeds were invited to attend by Robert C. Heffernan, county agent.

A. C. Thomson, fieldman for the Wisconsin Dairymen's association and A. O. Collette, College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, will be present at the meetings.

Mrs. Tessendorf Will Direct Junior Choir

Neenah — Mrs. C. F. Tessendorf, 1073 E. Wisconsin avenue, has been secured to direct the activities of the junior choir of Immanuel Lutheran church according to the Rev. E. C. Kollath, pastor. Mrs. Tessendorf will meet with the choir for the first time this evening at the church.

Mrs. Tessendorf received her musical training at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music where she majored in violin.

WOMEN CONFESS HOLDUP, SLAYING

Police at Newark, N. J., said Mrs. Ethel Strouse Sohl (right) and Genevieve Owens (left), 17, had confessed the $210 holdup in which a bus driver was killed. Mrs. Sohl was quoted as returning to the car where Miss Owens was waiting after the holdup and said "I had a tussle and I think I shot a man."

Students Hold Mock Trials To Learn Court Procedure

Neenah — Students in Harvey Leaman's civics classes at Neenah High school at least won't be ignorant of court procedure if they are ever called into court whether as a witness, defendant, plaintiff, or juror, and those pupils planning to follow law as a profession will have an idea of what it is all about before they continue their education in law colleges.

The classes which are currently studying the courts are holding mock court trials this week, giving their studies a practical application. The class room has been turned into an improvised courtroom, and the students have chosen judges, attorneys, clerk of courts and bailiffs. They have chosen cases they are trying and named the defendants.

The work is all in the hands of the students, with Mr. Leaman as supervisor. He said the students have collected all evidence, several of whom has sought information from the police station, lawyers and justices.

The class which meets at 7:55 in the morning is trying a kidnapping case. The victim was Thera Rausch, who was allegedly kidnapped from the high school grounds at 4:51 in the afternoon, Dec. 17, 1937. Leslie Shoman is the defendant and his attorney is Oliver Evans. The plaintiff's attorney is Jack Williams, and Robert Drews is presiding. Dorothy Burchard is clerk of courts and Roland Wolff is bailiff.

Try Murder Case

A murder case is being tried during the class which meets at 8:55 in the morning. Knight Blank is accused of murdering his 74-year-old uncle, J. C. Williams, at 11:30 Friday morning, Dec. 3, 1937 at N. Park avenue. State's attorney is Tom Christofferson and Robert Schmidt is the defense attorney, while William Calloway is judge. Clerk of courts is Dorothy Jape and Ronald Hall is bailiff.

The third case which is being tried in the class which convenes at 10:50 in the morning is an accident case in which Mildred Krueger was seriously injured when allegedly struck by a car driven by Richard Meyer, defendant, at Elm and Division streets at 5:15 Friday afternoon, Dec. 17, 1937.

The defendant's attorney is Jack Ward, while Janet Dyreby is the plaintiff's attorney, Robert Olson presides on the bench, and Helen Nelson is clerk of courts, while Howard Asmus is bailiff.

The fourth case involves another kidnapping, the case being tried by the class which meets at 2:05 in the afternoon. The victim was Jean Jorgensen, 15, who was kidnapped at 5:15 Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 15, and held in the Boys' Brigade cabin. Ransom of $1,000 was paid and the money traced. The state's attorney is Rose Dowling and Harold Holverson takes the role of defendant, while Robert Kollath is the defendant's attorney. Emory Waters is the judge and Ella Corey is clerk of court. J. Johnson is bailiff.

Study Plans for Construction of Superhighway 41

Highway Commission Members to Hold Hearings on Project

Menasha — An informal discussion by members of the state highway commission, members of the county board and Oshkosh citizens was held at Oshkosh Wednesday afternoon to consider construction of Superhighway 41 in Winnebago county during 1938. The meeting was held following the Oshkosh bridge hearing.

Commission members indicated that public hearings will be held soon after the first of the year. Probable construction, if the project is started, would be from that portion of the highway already completed to Oshkosh. The superhighway is completed from a point north of Kaukauna to old 41 west of Neenah.

The proposed route from there would be south paralleling the Soo Line tracks to Snell's Corners, thence west across present Highway 41 to County Trunk J and finally turning south to enter Oshkosh.

Highway commission officials present included William O'Brien, vice chairman; T. J. Pattison, secretary; E. L. Roettiger, state highway engineer; C. L. Kirch, bridge engineer, all of Madison, and D. F. Culbertson, division engineer, Green Bay.

Straighten 110

If the project does not materialize, the county's road building activity will probably be confined to two jobs during 1938, straightening curves on Highway 110 near Fremont and elimination of two curves on Highway 44 near Fisk.

The majority of highway work during 1937 was done in the vicinity of Neenah and Menasha. Two overhauls were constructed and nearly 7 miles of new road laid west of the Twin Cities. Highway 114 west of Menasha was paved for 1.6 miles and 1.7 mile of street on North Lake street, as well as a section of North Commercial street, were paved in Neenah.

Winnebago county has approximately 410 miles of improved roads. Of this mileage, 127 miles are federal and state trunks and 282 are county trunks. All but two miles of the federal and state highways are paved. Of the county trunks, 47.3 miles are paved and the remainder are black top, oiled or gravel. The county has a total of 171.8 miles of concrete road. In addition there are nearly 200 miles of town line highways, many of which are improved.

Martens Take Cage Lead by Touncing Lakeview, 53 to 23

Gord's Delivery Whips News-Time Team, 24 To 8, at Neenah

Neenah—Martens Creamery quintet moved in sole possession of first place in the Twin City Industrial basketball league Wednesday night when they tounded the Lakeview, 53 to 23, at Roosevelt gymnasium.

In the other league game last night the Gord's Delivery team whipped the News-Times, 24 to 8, at Neenah.

Kettering paced the Martens to a win when he scored 12 points from four field goals and as many free throws. Hawkinson's five baskets and one gift shot also helped the cause along. Clark made five baskets and Krause sank four field goals for the Martens. Jewell was high scorer for the Lakeview, netting four baskets. The Creamery team held a 23 to 13 lead over the Lakeview at halftime.

Concentrating their scoring in the second half the Gord's submerged the News-Times, 24 to 8. They held a 7 to 2 advantage over the News-Times at the half. Meyer led the Gord's offensive attacks with three field goals.

Tonight's games: DeMolay versus Banta Publishers at 7:15, Bergstrom Papers versus Wooden Wares at 8 o'clock, and Falcons versus Marathon Papers at 8:45.

Clintonville Residents to Organize Chapter of NAA at Meeting Tonight

Clintonville—Four men, prominent in National Aeronautic Association and Bureau of Air Commerce activities headline the program Thursday night at the city hall where organization of a Clintonville chapter of the NAA will be undertaken. The meeting will start promptly at 7:30.

President Max Sties of the association of commerce, as chairman, will present: S. J. Wittman, Oshkosh, speed pilot; Paul T. Tobey, Wausau, vice governor of Wisconsin NAA, and president of the Wausau Association of Commerce; M. P. Hanscombe, Bureau of Air Commerce Aeronautical Inspector, Milwaukee; and William P. Todd, Chicago, Bureau of Air Commerce Adviser to WPA.

Other prominent NAA officers expected to be present are: Archie Becker, Wausau city engineer; Archie Towle, Wausau airport manager; and Ed Bawesman, secretary of the Wausau NAA chapter.

Wittman will discuss the romance and importance of the aviation industry, illustrating his talk with anecdotes of his rich and varied flying experiences. Tobey will present aims and activities of NAA; Hanscombe will discuss the Bureau of Air Commerce activities in relation to airports; and Todd will present the methods used in securing WPA projects for airport construction.

Forest H. Longeway, Chicago, former Wisconsin bureau of air commerce aeronautical inspector, Tuesday advised the organization committee that he would be unable to attend.

At the meeting, following Tobey's explanation of NAA activities, an opportunity will be presented all persons wishing to join as charter members of the proposed Clintonville chapter of the NAA. Invitations to air-minded individuals of Shawano, Marion, New London, Manawa, Waupaca, Bear Creek, Embarras, and other neighboring cities and towns, as well as citizens of Clintonville, have been extended by Chairman Sties. Membership blanks and charter application forms have been received from President Charles F. Horner, Washington, D. C., of NAA national headquarters.

Prior to the meeting, President Walter A. Olsen of The Four Wheel Drive Auto Company will be host at a banquet at Hotel Marson at 5:30, for the guest NAA and bureau of air commerce officials, for city officials, for officers of the Association of Commerce, and various members of the FWD personnel.

The guests, upon arrival Thursday, were to be taken on an extensive tour of the FWD factory and offices, and given a demonstration of FWD trucks designed for maintenance of airports, and snow removal on landing field runways.

Volunteer Firemen in Meeting at Marion

Marion—The volunteer fire department held its monthly meeting Monday evening. The resignation of Henry Helms was accepted, and James Hopkins was accepted as a member of the department. The dance committee gave its report and stated it had cleared expenses and also added a sum to the treasury.

A daughter was born Friday, to Mr. and Mrs. James Lacey, at the New London Community hospital. Forrest Uttomark is in Chicago this week, where he is attending a furniture dealers' convention. The Schafkopf club met at the home of Will Zietlow Monday evening. Those receiving prizes were Will Borchardt, high, Will Zietlow, second, and Rudy Ehler, third. Frank Polzin received the consolation prize. The club will meet at the Polzin home next Monday evening.

The meeting of the Young Ladies Sodality of the Blessed Virgin, was called off on account of the prevalence of scarlet fever in the village. Mrs. Emilie Bazille returned Wednesday to her home in Green Bay, after spending the last two weeks here, with relatives and friends.

THE CHARACTERS
Nina, Junior Leaguer and ex-dante, impulsively married David, hoping to end her intense love for her stepfather, but now she appreciates David and is disgusted with Richard.
Richard, the charming well-tailored stepfather, proposed secret love to Nina.
Honey, Nina's gay childish mother, is wild about Richard.
David, a bright young auto salesman, adores Nina and tries to make her happy on his small salary.
Gracie, an old girl friend of David, still pursues him.
Chapter 42
DAVID'S BINGE
It was after six, but David had not come home yet.
She was crazily eager to have him come, so that she could apologize wholeheartedly for having been unreasonable about moving.
She wrote: "Out marketing, darling, will be back in a few minutes," and ran out with Button.
It pleased her to dash about, frantically, from one market to another, to get lamb chops a few cents cheaper than at the first place.
To drive a bargain on golden bantam corn.
It was silly—not even the tiniest drop in the bucket of all that she meant to do; but it eased the tremendous urge in her to get started on the right track, to be a good wife for David.
She tore up her note when she got back, because David was still away.
She went to work in the kitchen, with a vengeance, and at 7.30 her heart gave a great flop, as she heard his key in the lock.
She dashed out to him.
"David darling... I've been so crazy to have you come back!"
Sweetheart—I do want to apologize for being unreasonable, and a poor sport!"
She saw, at once, that there was something the matter with him.
He looked at her, with a silly,
bad-boy grin on his face.
"Gosh, Nina, we quarreled, didn't we?"
"Yes, David."
"He smelt of liquor."
"Da-a-rling, I'm pl-asted!"
She laughed a little shakily.
"I know it, David."
"You know," he said and he leaned against the wall, "you know, I could have pulled myself together, baby, if I had come home and found the battle still raging... but finding you, all sweet like this...
Lord, Nina, I've gone all soft. Was I a brute, last night? Kick me if I was!"
"I was the brute, lamb. Do you forgive me?"
He went to take her in his arms then but caught his foot against the doorstep, and stumbled.
He said: "God, how mortifyin!"
Nina had never seen him really tight before, but there was nothing horrid about it, he was only amusing... and cunning really. He wasn't the least bit disheveled; only when he took off his hat, one strand of bright copper hair was standing straight upon the top of his head. Somebody had done it to him, because it was moistened, and twisted.
He looked like a young, slightly dazed kid, who had just smoked his first cigar behind the barn.
She saw that he was not going to want any supper.
He lay down on the day-bed.
Muttered: "So damn—proverbial husband coming back drunk after a quarrel!... Didn't mean to, honestly kid, only I was so... gosh damn upset!"
"I don't blame you—sweetheart!"
Suddenly he began to chuckle.
"Lord, Nina," he said, "if you think I'm plastered, you ought to see Gracie!" and then he fell asleep.
Gracie.
Nina went in, and ate the meal

Home Assignments Should Not Require Three Hours

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Please ask the teacher not to give Harold so much homework. It took him three hours to get it done last night, and that is the usual thing. He never gets done under two hours, mostly three. He is in school every day for five hours, and it does seem to me that the teacher ought to get along without three hours homework for a nine-year-old boy in the third grade."

That sounded pretty bad. Three hours homework for a child in the third grade.

"What lessons does he do in the three hours?"

"He has five new words, and five examples."

"What kind of words?"

"Ordinary words, like house, mouse, fair, chair, dinner. That was his last night. They are his reading words."

"I see. And are the examples big, hard ones, problems?"

"He says they are hard. Multiply three hundred thirty-three by seven. Multiply forty-four by seven. Like that."

"Was that all he had to do?"

"Just those two lessons. And review four lines of poetry. He didn't have time to do the poetry. I had him say it this morning when he was getting ready for school."

"Did he know it?"

"No. That's just the point. He isn't learning a thing and she keeps piling on homework. I do my best, but I can't see any improvement. When a child works three hours on a homework lesson it is too much. It makes the child disgusted."

"What would you say if I were to tell you that every child in the class does his homework in half an hour and gets a good mark next day? That would be about right. Any school child in normal health, mental and physical good health, can do that lesson inside the half-hour. The work the teacher assigned could easily have been done in half an hour. If the child had been able to do his work he would have done it and well within the time."

"What is to be done? Take the child to the family physician first. Have him thoroughly examined for physical defects. Skip nothing because any defect, however slight it seems, is important to the growth and development of any child. Then have him examined by a reputable psychologist. Next, and most important of all, get the experienced teacher's word upon the child."

I say that the teacher's word is most important because it is she who lives with the boy day after day, hour by hour, lesson by lesson. She is trained to see and understand the workings of a child's mind. She will know what no other professional expert can know without long study. Add her word to what the physicians say and try to help the child by following a program they advise.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers of the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Should Have Made Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: After your extremely interesting and instructive examination you may feel that the mistakes of our dubs should be few and far between. If you have any dream of retiring to a life of ease, undisturbed by the buzzing of questions, disabuse your mind right now! We are going right along at the same old stand, making our usual bulls. The only change will be, I fear, that now we will fight about them and try to alibi ourselves more than ever. I send you a hand played in a recent family game. I was South and an uncle, who happens also to be my employer, was North. The last mentioned phase of our relationship deterred me from calling him a particular brand of fat head. I thought him, but not naturally, did not make him pull his punches. The hand was:

♠ Q 8 2
♥ A 7 5
♦ 10 9 5 4
♣ A 7 4
WEST
♠ 7 6
♥ 10 8
♦ J 7 6 3 2
♣ J 9 8 5
EAST
♠ 9 5
♥ Q J 9 6 4
♦ K 8
♣ Q 10 3 2
SOUTH
♠ A K J 10 4 3
♥ K 3 2
♦ A Q
♣ K 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 no trump	Pass
7 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

"Needless to say, the grand slam fell on its nose by one trick, even though the diamond king lay right (a low diamond was opened).

"What I should like to know from you is: Who was responsible for reaching seven spades, dear uncle, who gave me what I consider an atrocious line, no trump response, or I, who jumped from five no trump to seven spades? Sincerely yours,

"W. J. Z., New York."

"P. S. Please, now Mr. Culbertson, no rabbits out of the hat. Don't tell me that I should, or actually could have made the contract!"

Attempting to be absolutely fair, I attribute 65 per cent of the blame for reaching the bad grand slam to North for his malodorous two no trump response and 35 per cent to South for his unwarranted jump to seven over the five no trump. But I am afraid I can't keep back even rabbits. The contract, bad as it was, should have been fulfilled!

After the opening lead cleared up the diamond finesse there were precisely two chances for success. One was that the diamond ten could be established by a ruff; this, of course, depending on the unlikely condition that a low diamond jack lay only twice guarded. The second, and more likely chance, would be a squeeze. The correct method of play was to combine these two chances.

On winning with the diamond ace declarer should lead two rounds of trumps, cash the diamond queen, then enter dummy with a trump, to show out the diamond. When East shows out the squeeze remains declarer's only hope. A low heart to the ace and a heart to the king should follow. Then one more trump lead would result in this position:

♠ None
♥ None
♦ 10
♣ A 7 4
WEST
♠ None
♥ None
♦ J 3
♣ J 9 8
EAST
♠ None
♥ Q
♦ None
♣ Q 10 3

The last trump now would effect a double squeeze. West would have to hold the diamond jack and, therefore, would have to discard a club. Dummy would abandon the diamond queen to stop declarer's three spot and thus would have to unguard the club suit. The club king and low club to the ace would bring home the last three tricks.

TOMORROW'S HAND

Uncle Ray's Corner

Life in Ancient Egypt

A king and soldiers.

For weapons, the soldiers used spears, bows and arrows, battle axes, long knives and slings. Some traveled on foot, others in chariots. The art of marching together was learned, and the archers let loose their arrows in volleys. Shields were in common use, and some men wore helmets.

Among the battle pictures which have come down to us is one which you see today. The Egyptian is shooting an arrow. At the same time he is guiding his horses with the reins tied around his waist. The case at the side holds more arrows. The capture of forts and walled cities was an important part of the war "game," but battles in the open were still more important. Thousands of men clashed together and did their best to wound or kill. The archers usually sent forth showers of arrows at the opening of the conflict. Then great lines of chariots were driven together, and the bloody fight went on.

The king usually remained safely back in his capital city, watching the building of temples and ordering his captains to see that the next pyramid was built properly. When a king did venture near the battle grounds, it was the custom for him to keep a safe distance from the actual fighting.

A few castles are known where Pharaohs became mixed in the heat of the battle. Ramses the Second once fell into serious danger, and it is a wonder that he was not killed. The Egyptians were at war with stubborn foes known as the Khitas. Spies from the Khita camp gave false news to the Egyptian generals, and two-thirds of the army had started away to another point. Suddenly the enemy attacked in full force. Ramses, feeling that he had been trapped, decided to sell his life as dearly as possible. He drove his chariot into the midst of the Khitas and snote right and left. Soon he saw that he had been cut off from his troops, but he did not surrender. The return of the soldiers who had left camp saved the monarch from death.

Men With Strength and Brains Still Superior

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I am a business woman and, of course, am thrown with many men in my work. One of their favorite topics of lamentation is the pitiful state of the world since women got the vote. According to them, men are being deprived of all their economic, political and social rights because women are appropriating jobs, offices, salaries and the mastery of the home. It seems to me, as a middle-aged woman who would be glad to surrender job and her independence for a home, a husband, a family, that if the conditions of woman's independence are so menacing to the world men ought to do something about it instead of merely cringing. If women have pushed themselves up to a plane of equality with men, why don't men push themselves still higher to a plane of superiority? If men object to married women holding jobs, why don't they come to an understanding before marriage that their wives are not to combine homemaking with wage-earning? I believe that most women, for all their talk of equality, would like to feel that men are their superiors in wisdom, in strength and in high-mindedness. So if men are sincere in their respect for their lost position as lords and masters of the universe, the remedy is at hand. They have only to be supermen.

DOROTHY DIX

their superiors in wisdom, in strength and in high-mindedness. So if men are sincere in their respect for their lost position as lords and masters of the universe, the remedy is at hand. They have only to be supermen.

A WAGE-EARNER.

Right you are, sister. Maybe it is traditional, maybe it is because God made "em that way, but it is true that women want to look up to men and it is a blighting disappointment to them when men won't let them do it. Every woman wants to put her own man on a pedestal and burn incense at his feet and when her little tin god tumbles off his perch and she sees that he is nothing but a fake—something that she has built up in her own imagination—it breaks her heart and fills her with shame for him, and for herself that she has loved so poor a thing.

Of course, when men blame women for everything that is wrong in this upper old world, it is merely an alibi for their own failures. For men are still running the government and industry and women have a very small finger in the pie. We have no woman president. No woman at the head of the steel trust, or any automobile industry. No woman financiers running big banks. You don't hear the go-getters complaining about the competition of women. Joe Louis isn't worrying over her through the lean days until she gets a man to bring home the bacon.

Nearly every woman would rather have a husband, a home and a baby than a job. When a girl goes to work she doesn't look forward to spending her whole life keeping books or selling blouses or whatever it is. It is just a makeshift to carry her through the lean days until she gets a man to bring home the bacon.

If, however, he is sincere in his protestations of affection and is giving you up because he promised his wife that he would not marry again, he is showing more sentiment than sense. He must know that such a promise is far better broken than kept, and that the sacrifice of the happiness of two lives should not be that there is something peculiarly sacred and binding in a promise made to the dead.

In fact, of all promises, they are the ones that are the least reason to keep because, as a general thing, the dying are not in full possession of their faculties and do not realize what they are asking. Their requests are just the last flare-up of earthly selfishness and vanity, and it is tragic to think that these may impose a martyrdom upon others.

Surely it can add nothing to the bliss of a soul in heaven to know that because of a promise he or she wrung out of a loved one that a woman is spending her life in poverty and hard work and loneliness because she is bound by a promise not to marry and so has to turn away from the love and comfort some good man offers her, or some man is going through dreary years, companionless, homeless, childless because a wife bound him never to put another in her place. Such promises should never be made or kept.

Bake fruit cakes in covered casseroles to keep them moist. Fill the casserole not more than two-thirds full, since the cake will rise. Before storing the cake allow it to cool. Then wrap it in several thicknesses of waxed paper and set it in a cool, dry place. Make the dish airtight by pouring melted paraffin around the edges where the cover meets the dish. Use a glass, china or earthenware dish.

Get out your scrap bag and get ready to start your Calico Cat quilt. Each cut patch measures about 4 x 8 inches and is so easy to apply. You'll be delighted with its colorfulness. Use it on a pillow top, it's very effective. Pattern 1583 contains accurate pattern pieces; a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials; complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart; diagram of quilt to help arrange blocks for single and double bed size.

Send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) for this pattern to Appleton Post-Crescent, Needle Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly; address number, your name and address.

PATTERN 1583

Time for Inventory To Be Taken

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Every year at this time we take inventory. We list our assets and liabilities just as the merchants list their saleable and unsaleable stock. This year, however, our inventory will be a little more complicated. For we will concentrate on the abstract qualities of charm quite as much as we will on our physical attributes.

It is simple enough to have a true party, face yourself frankly, and fairly and say: yes, my hair is dry. I need oil treatments. Or, my hair is oily and I shall need more frequent shampoos, an astringent tonic and check-up on my diet with a view to cutting down on sweets, fatty foods and starches.

The average eye can see the difference between a dry and oily skin; and every woman knows (only too well) whether that clear-cut line at the chin is gradually giving way under the weight of birthdays and negligence!

Women are more figure conscious today than ever and they diet and exercise more slowly and sanely. Women know more about their bodies, about vitamins and food elements, about their own beauty needs. And women are fast learning how to make the most of their looks, how to point up their own personality as well as their best features.

That is why I say that a frank list of "I have to my credit" . . . and "I have to my debit" . . . should be very simple to compile. From that the "I need most" can be built beautifully, with the aid of an expert, if necessary. The only bit of warning would be: don't be too hard on yourself, don't exaggerate, and don't try to cover too much in one sitting. Very often young girls in their teens write me their tales of woe, their list showing lack of love, lines and they include hundreds of little details instead of covering the big, most important issues first. Your own sense of values must guide you.

The most important part of your inventory and the most difficult is studying yourself for qualities which the eye cannot so quickly detect. Your posture, your poise, your voice, your capacity as a companion, your ability to listen to others, to understand others, to help others, not altogether forgetting yourself. All these things are essential components of charm.

My complete new booklet "Re-duce by Exercise" (Booklet 22) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to the Bell Library, care of this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.

When, after marriage she continues to work, it is because her husband cannot make enough to support them in comfort, or because she feels that she can help him to get along faster by adding her earning power to his.

It is all just part of a new economic era, and if men want to dominate it they have got to show that they are better men than the women are.

Dear Miss Dix—I am very much in love with a young man whose wife died less than a year after their marriage. Upon her deathbed she made him promise that he would not marry again. He feels bound to keep this promise, although he loves me very much. We have now come to the place where we must marry or break, and he intends to go away and try to forget me. What should I do?

DESPERATE.

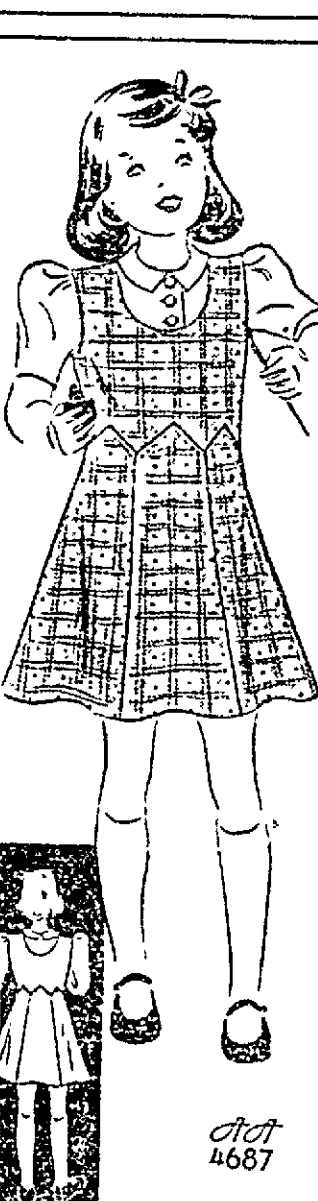

Answer: It does not seem possible that in this practical and sophisticated age that any young man would let a promise, wrung out of him by the stress of a deathbed scene, wreck the happiness of his whole life. So I am inclined to think that your Boy Friend doesn't want to marry. He is using that as a camouflage behind which he is making his getaway.

If, however, he is sincere in his protestations of affection and is giving you up because he promised his wife that he would not marry again, he is showing more sentiment than sense. He must know that such a promise is far better broken than kept, and that the sacrifice of the happiness of two lives should not be that there is something peculiarly sacred and binding in a promise made to the dead.

In fact, of all promises, they are the ones that are the least reason to keep because, as a general thing, the dying are not in full possession of their faculties and do not realize what they are asking. Their requests are just the last flare-up of earthly selfishness and vanity, and it is tragic to think that these may impose a martyrdom upon others.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

ABOUT THE TEAKETTLE

Dear Mrs. Post: Several weeks ago you wrote, in answer to a letter from some one who had no suitable water kettle for her tea tray but wanted to give a tea in spite of it, that a water kettle was the most important piece on the tea tray. You suggested that she serve coffee or chocolate if it were not possible to borrow a water kettle from a friend. I have been trying to find a good reason why, if there is no "party" water kettle, the teapot should not be taken to the family water kettle on the kitchen stove. Tea has to steep for a few minutes before it is poured, which allows for getting back to the tea table. And as you yourself wrote, if the water is boiling, water added in the cups need not be actually boiling. Admittedly, perfect equipment is the ideal arrangement, but are those of us who can not buy a company water kettle to be deprived of the happiness of visiting with our friends over the teacups?

Answer: I am very glad you called my attention to this because many others must have interpreted what I wrote the other day in the same way. A tea-kettle is of course the essential object of the tea tray, much the same way that a burning open fire is the center of hospitality in a room. (At least a room with a burning open fire always seems particularly hospitable.) This does not of course mean that every room has to have an open fire. The rooms of most of us would have to be inhospitable if this were the case. If you are serving tea to every one at exactly the same moment, it is entirely possible of course to bring in your teapot filled with tea freshly

New London—An elaborate and unique "safety sentinel" has been erected at the main employees' entrance to the Edison Wood Products, Inc., for the promotion of industrial safety at the plant.

Designed and built by the safety committee of the company, the standard was dedicated to the memory of the late Guy A. Peck, former plant superintendent who originally approved of its construction before his death several months ago.

The "sentinel" is a rectangular monument of wood with a decorative base, panels and side wings finished in black and white. At the bottom is a large box on which is mounted a large red globe carrying the words, "Don't Let It Be You!"

Supported above is a smaller box with a small white globe on top with the warning, "Play Safe." The top section displays charts and bulletins pertaining to accidents and safety. On any day when a last-time accident occurs the red light flashes off and on as workers pass.

On the safety committee are Walter Stewart, chairman; Norman Sennett, secretary; James Lockyear, William Liskow and Ed Kleinbrook.

Two's Company

By MARGARET CLUON HERZOG

she had prepared so carefully in solitude.

She told herself that David had forgiven her; that everything was going to be all right; that this was a new beginning.

Would Be Trouble Maker

A funny combination met in the apartment the next afternoon. Cordelia... and Gracie.

Cordelia had just been there a minute or two when Gracie walked in with a terrific hangerover, and a mean light in her eye.

Nina introduced them and explained that Cordelia had just got back from Europe.

"I was just asking Nina," said Cordelia, looking too darkly beautiful, in a Paris creation for the autumn, "about that adorable husband of hers."

Gracie answered for her. "Unless I miss my guess, he's got a whippet. Meaning—large."

"Bit of a binger," Cordelia asked Nina. "You look fit."

Nina was surprised that she could laugh so easily—so openly.

"I wasn't on it! Little David took little Gracie out and they got themselves a bun on."

Darling Cordelia looked as though it was quite the most natural thing in the world.

Gracie didn't.

She said, meanly: "What was the trouble, Nina? I've never seen him so low."

"We had stinking mean news," Gracie didn't tell you? We have to move out, the apartment's rented."

Gracie said: "Oh, sure, he told me—that."

And Cordelia said: "Oh, darling, what a shame!"

"Perhaps you can find a cheaper one, now," Gracie was watching Nina, closely.

"Oh, dear, it's so adorable here through Nina's."

In a minute, Gracie let it slip that Jack Knight had been along, the evening before, and she was so visibly annoyed with herself, that Nina had to bite back a smile.

Because she was amused at Gracie, and because she felt so much better, now that she knew.

It was very obvious that Miss Nolan had come to make trouble—at least to let on that she knew there had been trouble in the Day household.

"Just one more thing to stack up against me," Nina thought, but she didn't really care much then.

David had been so sweet, and forgiving, and penitent himself that morning, and Nina was so glowingly full of her new resolve, that it would take a lot more than Gracie, with a hangerover, to upset her now.

She had decided that God had been extraordinarily good to her, not letting Honey or David suspect anything. She had told the Lord, as she washed the breakfast dishes, that she would not forget his kindness. She would not let Him down.

Gracie asked for a pick-me-up.

"...and I mean the hair of an English sheep dog, Nina. It was no clipped fox-terrier that bit me last night! Here, gimme, I'll pour my own."

She poured herself a good three fingers of gin, and downed it in one gulp.

"Now little Gracie can get home!" "Did you come all the way down here, just to see me?" Nina asked innocently.

Cordelia's New Sparkle

When the girl had gone, Cordelia raised inquiring eyebrows. She didn't say anything, she just looked her question.

Nina answered it, laughing. "Yeah! personally, I think Miss Nolan is trying to unsettle me, Cordelia; but as David would say, she rolls off my knife!"

Cordelia remarked on a fact that Nina had noticed some time before. "The boy's got something, all right, darling."

"Hasn't he, though?"

Then they began talking about Cordelia.

Cordelia was different.

Nina began to wonder if she was getting some sort of a mania on the subject of thinking people had suddenly come to life, after walking about in a fog. First Hester, then herself, and now Cordelia.

But she certainly had a new sparkle in her eye. There was no getting away from it.

She spoke of certain parties, with a peculiar expression on her lovely face. On some people's it would have been a smirk, on some—a simper; but on Cordelia, it was simply a perfectly natural manifestation that the loved one had been on the party.

Nina was certain it was Tony Leeds.

She was awfully glad, Tony had Cordelia and Carl Semple and the Challoners had been constantly together, since their reunion on the Riviera, six weeks before.

She was dying to come right out and ask her friend, but she didn't. She'd find out, all right, sooner or later.

David came in then, all crazy and gay, and as though there had never even been a hint of a cloud on their horizon.

Nina felt bursting with her new happiness, and her new resolutions, and with thankfulness over her escape.

"Well, angel," she said cheerfully—"it's definite now. Those newlyweds signed the lease this morning. McDuff told me, with tears running down his cheeks."

David shook his head, dejectedly, but then he looked at Nina, and thanked her with his eyes, for her cheerful attitude.

"We'll find another bafgain—I'm sure of it, David."

And he came over and kissed her. "Brick!" he said softly.

Mendelssohn and Schubert Music Studied by Club

Weyauwega—The study of Schubert was conducted by Mrs. A. W. Bennett and that of Mendelssohn by Miss Dorothy Jenney at the home of the former Tuesday at the meeting of the Weyauwega Music club. The musical numbers were from the works of these two composers. Schubert numbers were: "Serenade," a piano solo played by Miss Jenney; "Rosemunde," Bennett String trio; "Impromptu," piano duet, Mrs. A. S. Peterson and Miss Bennett; "Ave Maria," soprano solo, Mrs. Hans Peterson; Mendelssohn piano numbers: "Spinning Song," Miss Bennett and "Caprice in E Minor," Mrs. Hans Peterson. A study of other composers in the romantic period will be taken up Jan. 17.

The J. F. F. club met with Mrs. Emil Frahl Monday evening. Two tables of auction were in play and prizes at cards were awarded to Mrs. Myrtle Olson and Mrs. Irvin Mader.

The Double Four Bridge club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Leo Richter Monday evening.

The Weyauwega Fire department was called to the home of Arthur Hallman, route 3, Weyauwega, Tuesday noon. An over-heated pipe extending through the ceiling to a chimney on second floor was the cause of fire. The fire was confined to the ceiling in the one room and was quickly extinguished when the firemen arrived. Most of the damage was caused by smoke and water.
